James Byrnes Comes Back!

CHARLESTON, S. C.—From the Battery we looked on the bay, by night. A pale light, sifted by thin clouds, silvered the scene of ancient glories and sorrows where 89 years ago the bitter old man, Edmund Ruffin, pulled the lanyard which sent the first shell on its flaming way to Fort Sumter and the reluctant sister States to war.

During the day James Francis Byrnes, candidate for Governor of South Carolina, had spoken at Monks Corner and Charleston. He had said again that he became interested in the Governorship of his native State after he had made speeches condemning increase in Federal power and what he considered a drift toward more socialization in government and received urgings that he run.

(His critics say for 30 years he helped create these national trends and cannot sincerely now be against them. They say also "Jimmy Byrnes has been for more, and against less, than any man in politics.")

He again had pledged he would not be a candidate for the Presidency on any ticket and would, at the end of his term, seek no other office.

He also had reaffirmed his intention to seek the aid of other Southern Governors in opposing the Federal administration's policies.

Meaning

"Once again," said a South Carolina newspaper man, "the South is going to be asked to accept the leadership of South Carolina in what will amount to a political secession from the Democratic party. The issues are in many respects identical with those of 1860-61."

"Jimmy Byrnes will be elected. He is a fine man and a sincere, patriotic American who has served his country well. There will be a substantial opposition vote, but I do not think it will force a run-over. There are those who don't admire him. His campaigning has irritated some. (Byrnes has traveled in a chauffeur-driven Cadillac; has appeared only when his speech was due in the order of rotation with three other candidates, and has promptly departed, without notice or mention of them. The crowd usually awaits his arrival and departs with him.)"

"He has kept his exact plans from even his closest friends. The Dixiecrats won four states in 1948. But Byrnes has said he is no Dixiecrat. He has refused to speak a word for them and this is resented. But he is bitterly anti-Truman."

"Byrnes, like Henry Wallace, sees in Harry Truman what he would have been had Roosevelt stood firmly for him. But, like Wallace, although for different reasons, Byrnes was dropped. The President liked Byrnes very much, but his leaders said he would not be acceptable to the Catholic vote because he had abandoned that church for a Protestant one, and also because the South Carolina position, not Byrnes', would affect the Negro vote."

"But, whatever the personal feeling, there is no question what he has elected will make him the symbol of opposition to President Truman and the Administration Civil Rights Program. Byrnes also seeks to have some taxes removed from the federal field and returned to the states."

"How effective he will be depends upon how much the Southern governors are willing to surrender their own political sovereignty to his direction. There may be some, like Long in Louisiana, who will prefer to remain independent and not accept Gov. Byrnes as the man to lead the South. But none should fail to see that his election means the creation of a Southern bloc with him as its directing leader."

Divided Party

So believes South Carolina. It may be enough to divide the party. It could assure the election of a Republican nominee who may be, of course, even more devoted to a Civil Rights program than Harry S. Truman.

Broad Street Opening Set For Monday

By ALBERT RILEY

The Broad Street extension has been completed and will be opened Monday, the joint City-County Bond Commission was informed Thursday as Col. Mose Cox, Secretary-Engineer of the Commission, reported on progress of Atlanta's $32,000,000 expressway and traffic improvement program.

The first contract on the expressway, covering the north leg route from Meritts Avenue to Sixteenth Street, is virtually complete and soon will be ready for limited traffic, Cox reported.

Meanwhile, the Commission approved an allocation of $12,000 out of City engineering funds for engineering on the Glenn Street extension via Georgia Avenue to Pulliam Street, and raised an allocation for Hunter Street viaduct plans from $48,000 to $53,000.

The Commission asked Cox for a complete report next month on all expenditures and allocation of monies so they can determine how the expressway funds are holding out.

The $500,000 Broad Street extension, which lengthens that street from Mitchell through to Garnett, will join the Boulevard underpass, Plaza, Hill Street and Courtland Street projects and a portion of the Techwood extension as completed, Cox said.

The Hunter Street viaduct plans envision a crossing of railroad yards westward from Forsyth Street.

A survey of the Glenn Street project has shown that it will be more practicable and less expensive to change from Stewart Avenue to meet with Georgia Avenue rather than to widen Glenn, Cox reported.

Cox told the Commission progress has been slow on the West By-Pass from North Avenue to Peters Street and has been delayed by the City's inability to complete rebuilding water lines. This delay, he said, has held up the contractor's paving operations, which are expected to start this month.

He also urged a speed-up in the acquisition of rights of way to complete bridges over the A. C. L. and N. C. & St. L. railroad tracks and the Glenn Street underpass on the West By-Pass.

Progress has been excellent on the south leg of the expressway and its 3.6 miles of road should be paved and open for traffic by the first of the year, Cox reported. Right-of-way on this leg from Lakewood to University Avenue is being acquired, as is right-of-way on the northeast leg.

Two Less-Than-2-Pound Babies' Condition Fine

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

The two smallest babies ever to survive at Crawford Long Hospital here are taking oxygen in side-by-side incubators in the Premature Nursery where attendants describe their conditions as "excellent."

Ira Newton Scott, Jr., dubbed "Scottie" by nurses, weighed in at one pound, nine ounces on June 26. Gladys Ruth Sprayberry tipped the scales at one pound, 11 ounces after birth on June 1.

Each baby lost weight at first—and each weighed at one time only one pound, five ounces. Miss Ruth Wright, head nurse, pointed out that about 6,000 babies a year were born at Crawford Long—and the Scott baby was the smallest on record to live.

She said the "third smallest," weighed one pound, 13 ounces. "Scottie" is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Scott, of Lithonia, and Gladys Ruth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Sprayberry, of Covington.

The Sprayberry infant was born at home with only the father in attendance. "A doctor came about an hour later," Miss Wright explained. "He told the father to bring the baby to Atlanta. The father wrapped the little thing in a blanket and drove here. But it's amazing the baby lived. She was so small."

The obstetrician who delivered the 11-day-old Scott baby said he now was taking two teaspoons of milk every three hours and was "very vigorous."

He said the baby was about three months premature, "and added it was 'very unusual' for a baby more than two months premature to live."

Both infants are fed through tubes inserted in their throats. After holding and feeding the two pocket-size babies in the palms of their hands, nurses said five-pound "preemies" seemed like little elephants.

Switchmen End Strike On 4 Roads

CHICAGO, July 6—(U.P.)—The AFL switchmen's union Thursday called off its strike against four railroads at the request of the Government but said it would continue the walkout against a fifth, the big Rock Island.

The union said it would send its men back to work on the Chicago Great Western, Denver & Rio Grande Western, Western Pacific and Great Northern Railroads as soon as the lines recall them.

The union said it was calling off the strike against the four carriers "because of the threat of direct government action."

President Truman in his press conference at Washington Thursday said the 12-day-old walkout should be ended and threatened drastic action unless it was terminated.

Switchmen's President Arthur Glover, in a bitter reply to the President, said the strike against the Rock Island would be continued to determine whether a legal strike is possible in a free country.

Heat Relief Slated Today

Atlantans can expect relief Friday from the recent sweltering weather, the weatherman predicted that it will be partly cloudy but not so hot.

So go ahead and plan those swimming parties and picnics. The official forecast indicates a high reading of 85 degrees, after a morning's low of 65.

Thursday, when welcome rain fell in Atlanta and other portions of the State, the thermometer reached 85 degrees after a low of 60.

Moscow To Hold U.S. Responsible

Declares UN Action on Korea To Be Illegal

LONDON, Friday, July 7—(AP)—Russia charged Friday the American blockade of Korea was a "new act of aggression" and warned she would hold the United States responsible for any damage to Soviet interests as a result of the blockade.

The Russian position was set forth in a note sent to the United States Embassy in Moscow, the Moscow radio said.

It was in answer to one sent by the United States July 4 informing the Russians that the United States had established the blockade "in keeping with the TOKYO, Friday, July 7—(U.P.)—Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced Friday that American B-29 superfortresses hit craft believed to be submarines in a series of strikes against Communist North Korea.

There was a possibility the submarines were Russian. American naval officers have reported that the North Koreans believe the submarines and observers believed the craft hit Friday may have been part of the Russian navy.

United Nations Security Council's request for support to the Republic of Korea in repelling North Korean invaders and restoring peace in Korea.

The Russian reply repeated the Soviet stand that the Security Council resolution of June 27 was illegal. Therefore, the Soviet note said, the Security Council resolution could not "serve as a legal basis for taking any measures whatsoever with regard to Korea, including a naval blockade of Korea."

Russia has insisted that the Security Council resolution was not legal because the Soviet Union and Communist China were not present at the meeting. Russia has boycotted Security Council sessions because Nationalist China still is represented there.

The ministry of foreign affairs of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics acknowledged receipt of the (U. S.) embassy's note of July 4 of this year and on the situation of the Soviet government and the honor to state the following:

"In the mentioned note the embassy informs that the President of the United States of America had ordered a naval blockade of the Korean coast alluding to the Security Council's resolution on the Korean question."

"The Soviet government in its reply of June 29 to the message of the United Nations Secretary-General, Mr. Trygve Lie, had already stated that the mentioned resolution of the Security Council on the Korean question was adopted in violation of the United Nations charter and has no legal force and consequently, cannot serve as a legal basis for taking any measures whatsoever with regard to Korea, including a naval blockade of Korea."

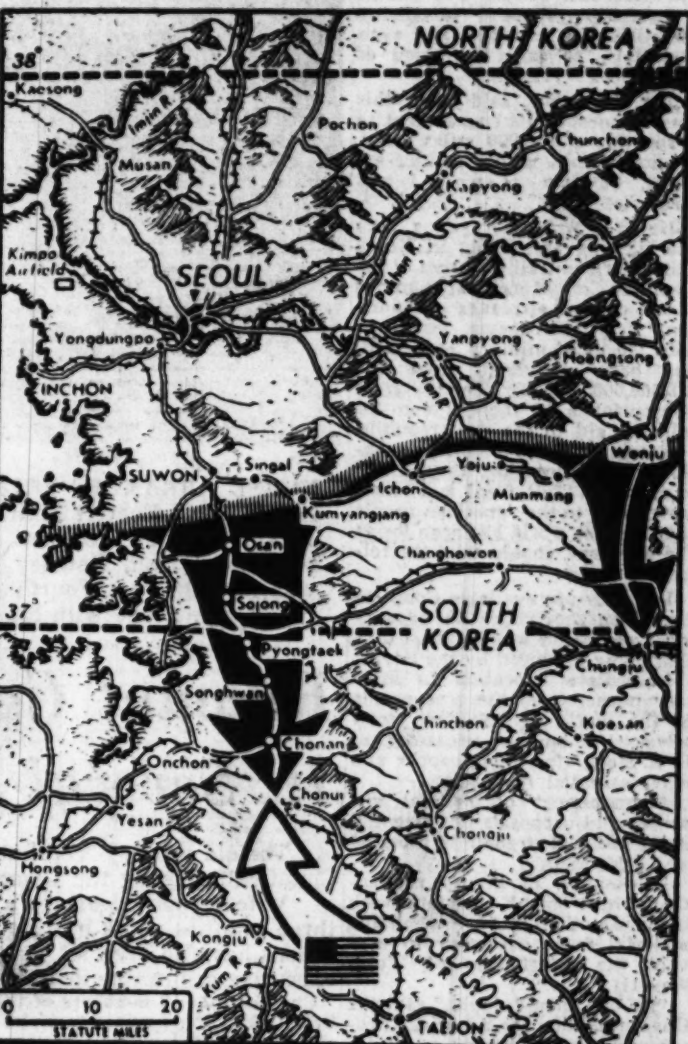

"The blockade of Korea constitutes a new act of aggression. This blockade is just as incompatible with United Nations principles as is the entire armed intervention of the United States in Korea."

"According to the aforesaid, the Soviet government will consider the government of the United States of America responsible for all consequences of this act and for all damage to interests of the Soviet Union which may be caused in connection with the carrying out of the aforementioned blockade."

Dad Dies in Vain As Lake Claims Son

By KEELER MCCARTNEY

Bertram S. Wilkins, 38-year-old Atlanta businessman, of 681 Upton Rd., N. W., was drowned late Thursday in a valiant but futile effort to rescue his small son from Lake Burton, in Rabun County, the State Patrol said.

Bodies of the father and six-year-old, Anthony Wilkins, were located side by side in 20 feet of water near the LaPrade resort camp landing, Troopers D. W. Gilbert and J. J. Whitmore, of the Toccoa State patrol district said.

An unidentified six-year-old boy, who was in a boat with the two when Anthony fell overboard and the elder Wilkins dived in after him, brought the motorboat to the landing and spread the alarm.

Rescue workers immediately began to drag the area pointed out by the boy and four hours later the bodies were pulled to the surface. Both bodies were located at the same time, troopers said.

Several persons along the shore and in boats reported seeing the two children and Wilkins in the boat during the afternoon, troopers related. However, they said apparently no one saw the tragedy except the unidentified six-year-old.

Wilkins evidently spent the afternoon teaching the boys to operate the motorboat, troopers said. They added the unidentified companion told rescue crews that Anthony tank immediately and that his father did not come to the surface after diving into the lake.

A wrist watch on Wilkins' arm stopped at 3:03 p. m., indicating that he died at approximately that time.

The Wilkins child met the unidentified youth during a holiday camp outing at the lake, troopers said they were told.

Wilkins was fulfilling a promise to teach them how to operate the boat. Troopers said it was amazing that a six-year-old boy was able

New Enemy Thrust Enters Chonan, Near Kum Line

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

TOKYO, Friday, July 7—(INS)—Thirty thousand armored North Korean troops in a two-day 35-mile plunge through a thin screen of U. S. troops Friday rolled into the city of Chonan, only 20 miles from the vital Kum River defense line.

The advance has cost the invaders 25 to 35 tanks, reports said.

The American infantry commander, Lt. Col. Harold Ayer, of New Orleans, La., entrusted with the defenses above the key communication city of Taejon, said: "We are in good shape—we'll do our best to shoot hell out of them."

General MacArthur announced at midday Friday that the Americans hurled back Thursday in the Chonan area north of Chonan were outnumbered "more than eight to one" by the "best Red division" operating under "a resourceful Red commander" whose tank men maneuvered their machines "extremely skillfully."

An Army spokesman at advance headquarters also revised upwards the estimated 60,000 Korean troops plunging southward through the Korean peninsula in a 50-mile penetration below Seoul and an 85-mile advance in 13 days below the 38th parallel border.

The spokesman told INS Front Correspondent Ray Richards that the Red troops are using 15 divisions, or 150,000 men, plus 150 tanks, in the huge onslaught.

The 35-mile drive since late Wednesday by the Communists was straight down the main highway toward Taejon—the main highway that eventually leads to the southeastern port city of Pusan at the end of the peninsula.

Front line dispatches said it cost the Reds at least 25 to 35 tanks, which were knocked out by the desperate fighting of an outgunned and outmaneuvered group of advance American doughboys firing bazookas. Gen. MacArthur's Friday morning bulletin was more conservative, mentioning a toll of only four tanks.

Far to the east of the central thrust other North Korean troops which had established a beachhead at Ulsan early in the war sent a force of 1,700 men fanning out into the interior. Ulsan is 140 miles south of the border and 135 miles north of the big South Korean base at Pusan.

Front line dispatches told of the City Passes 79th Day Without Traffic Death

At midnight Thursday night, Atlanta completed 79 consecutive days without a traffic fatality to tie a City record set in 1939, the Greater Atlanta Safety Council announced. The last fatality this year occurred at 4:45 p. m., April 18.

Eleven people have been killed this year in Atlanta traffic compared with 20 this time last year. The "deathless day" record, which stood for 11 years, was chalked up between May 27 and August 15 in 1939. It was the longest period without a fatal traffic accident in the history of the traffic division of the Atlanta Police Department. The traffic division was formed in 1935.

Police Chief Herbert Jenkins pointed to the incongruous fact that although fatalities are almost half of what they were last year, traffic accidents and injuries from these accidents have increased over 1949.

He listed 828 people injured in 3,259 reported accidents as of Thursday morning, compared to 699 injured in 2,473 accidents last year.

Jenkins cited the work of the Greater Atlanta Traffic Improvement Association and the newly formed Greater Atlanta Safety Council and other organizations for the work they have done in fostering safety consciousness on the part of the motoring and walking public.

He credited the establishment of a traffic engineer's office last fall with improving conditions which led to safer motoring.

Dewey Urges U. S. To Enter Arms Race

Demands Truman Admit Reds Winning Cold War

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution
ALBANY, N. Y., July 6—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey called upon the Truman administration Thursday to admit publicly that Communist aggression has been winning the cold war for five years and to launch forthwith an all-out program to enable the United States to "match and then outstrip Soviet production of arms."

U. S. To Stimulate Iran's Economy

9 Negroes Ask Admission To La. State

BATON ROUGE, La., July 6—(P)—Nine Negroes applied for registration at Louisiana State University Thursday.

They were given application forms and said they would fill them out and mail them in.

The University has never admitted Negroes.

President Harold W. Stokes, of LSU, said:

"The question of the right of Negroes to be admitted to LSU under recent Supreme Court decisions will be placed before the board of supervisors at the next meeting."

He said the board's next regular meeting was scheduled for Aug. 5.

Thursday was the first time Negroes had sought admission to Louisiana State University since the recent United States Supreme Court decision under which Negroes were admitted to the University of Texas.

200 Educators To Air Region College Program

By ALBERT RILEY

Georgia educators will be among 200 presidents and faculty members of Southern universities who will meet in an eight-day conference in September to reach agreements on further development of higher education on a regional basis.

Plans for the meeting—at Daytona Beach, Fla., Sept. 4-11—were announced late Thursday at Chattanooga.

Termed as unprecedented in the Nation's educational history, the Southwide meeting was called under the joint auspices of the Governors of 13 Southern States—Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

The discussions will be guided and sponsored by the South's Regional Program for Education, through which these States have worked for two years under a compact approved by their Legislatures.

At Chattanooga, Dr. John E. Ivey, Jr., Director of the Regional Educational Program's Board of Control, said that the educators would be asked to reach an agreement on priorities in the development of graduate programs in their respective institutions, with a view toward strengthening the South's economic and cultural growth.

Millard Caldwell, former Governor of Florida and Chairman of the Control Board, will preside at the opening of the workshop sessions.

Dr. Ivey said that four types of information, in general, would be sought. These are (1) the opinions of educators as to which curricula of graduate education are in need of immediate expansion, and (2) the graduate curricula now offered by Southern institutions.

Also (3) the availability of highly qualified staff personnel, student demand for training and employment demand for qualified graduates, and (4) co-operative arrangements in existence for inter-institutional collaboration.

In Atlanta, Associate Director W. J. McGlothlin stated the aim more simply as to find out what curricula the educators think need expanding and figure out ways of doing it.

Under the present Regional Education Program, Georgia is receiving students of veterinary medicine from other Southern States, is sending medical students to McHarry and receiving medical and dentistry students at Emory. Regional education plans also are being developed in nursing and social welfare. The Florida conference is expected to add other graduate work to the regional program.

McGlothlin said educators from the University of Georgia, Emory University, Georgia Tech and other Georgia institutions will attend the Daytona Beach sessions.

The 1948 Republican presidential candidate declared that the American people will accept a hardship program, sacrificing their luxuries, comforts and even essentials "to save the blood of their sons."

The Governor said that this country, despite its engagement in a shooting war 8,000 miles away, is proceeding with "politics-as-usual, business-as-usual and strikes-as-usual."

He said American young men are fighting and dying in Korea and American trained forces of the Republic of Korea are minus tanks, combat airplanes and anti-tank artillery because less than $500 worth of military equipment has been delivered from the $10,500,000 which the Congress appropriated 10 months ago for military aid to the new Republic.

Governor Dewey said the national administration, in addition to making a "full, frank and honest statement" to the American people that the free world has been losing the cold war, should take the following steps:

Instantly use available Congressional appropriations to produce more and better war material than that being produced by the Soviet.

Immediate allocation to military purposes, so the free people of the world can defend themselves, the amount necessary of U. S. steel, aluminum, copper and other essential materials.

Abandonment of Federal expenses and proposals not essential to the national strength in a period of world crisis.

Elimination of luxury production which might interfere with the production of "overwhelming material force necessary to prevent the catastrophe of World War III."

"No one should doubt," said the Governor, "that the American people will wholeheartedly support a vigorous, all-out effort to make the United States strong enough to win the peace."

"No one should doubt that the American people would prefer to sacrifice their luxuries, their comforts, even essentials, to save the blood of their sons."

School Shift To Negro Use Stirs Whites

By DICK HODGES

Organization of a full-scale drive to protest the transfer of the Julia L. Kingsbury School, 627 English Ave. N. W. to Negro use, gained full steam Thursday night.

Meeting in the gymnasium of the Salvation Army gym, 779 Bankhead Ave. N. W., more than 400 white residents of the area voiced strong disapproval of the transfer of the school, recently renamed the English Avenue School by the Atlanta Board of Education and designed to be a Negro grammar school in the Fall.

To counteract claims that there are not enough white children in the vicinity of the school, a citizens' committee of 30 was appointed to make a survey Friday morning of the number of white school age children in the area.

The results of the survey, which spokesmen for the protesting groups say will show more than enough white children to justify a school, will be given to the Board of Education at their meeting Tuesday afternoon.

At the same time, a delegation of 65 Northwest Atlanta residents will present to the Board a petition asking: "We the parents and property owners of the Northwest section of the City of Atlanta demand that we be privileged to keep Kingsbury School because of the need of white children in this area."

Mrs. James Longstreet, widow of the Confederate General, who has announced she will be a candidate for Governor in the November general election, Thursday asked Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook to clarify Georgia's election laws.

Mrs. Longstreet, in her 80s, asked about signatures needed on the petition required to put her name on the ballot.

Recount Call Echoes In Several Counties

The old war-cry "recount!" is ringing in several Georgia Counties following the Democratic Primary.

Vote recount hearings already have been scheduled in three counties and a hearing on charges of election law violations has also been set for the members of the Democratic executive committee in DeKalb.

Charges that 18 members of the DeKalb election committee violated the election laws will be aired Wednesday at 2 p. m., Aug. 3, before DeKalb Justice of the Peace Homer George.

Another member, Faye Roberts, manager of the Decatur Court-house Precinct, is charged with willful violation, according to Walter P. McCurdy, Solicitor of the Decatur City Court.

The hearing was originally scheduled for July 13, McCurdy said, however, the date had been changed due to the special election for Ordinance set for July 26. All 19 committee members were charged with misdemeanors and released on $100 bonds after Mrs. Madeline Hosmer Brenner swore out the warrants. Several reports indicate the ballot boxes were opened before the polls closed in DeKalb County.

W. B. Stubbs entered the DeKalb controversy Thursday by filing a formal complaint with the Democratic Executive Committee charging he was treated unfairly in the election of a new member to the committee.

Stubbs, a candidate for the committee, placed them under further fire by charging they left "vote for one" off the ballot with three names, confusing voters.

Walter Parris, Secretary of the Committee, said the group will meet early next week and will then consider Stubbs' complaint.

Several other DeKalb residents indicated they intend to appear before the DeKalb County Grand Jury when it meets next Tuesday and testify to violations observed on election day.

In Savannah, Superior Court Judge Mel Price refused Thursday to subpoena witnesses as the recounting of Chatham County ballots began.

Price commented: "I am not here to wash the dirty linen, if any, of Chatham County." He addressed his remark to Albert L. Cobb, defeated candidate for State Senator, who charged there had been fraudulent voting in the first box counted.

The judge held the hearing was for a recount, not a contest. Challengers are Cobb, Charles Debele, Melvin Robertson and Jesse Bowman, candidates for the House, and Allyn Wallace and R. E. Evans, Jr., candidates for County Commissioner.

At Brunswick, the same Judge Price postponed a recount of ballots in the Glynn County Commissioner's primary until next week. The recount was scheduled to start Thursday but Price delayed it because he had to attend the Savannah hearing.

At Augusta, the Richmond County Democratic Executive Committee tentatively set July 14 as a date to consider Harry Smythe's demand for a recount of ballots cast in the county's legislative races. Smythe lost to Samuel Graham by 69 votes in the recent primary.

Meanwhile a sub-committee of the State Democratic Executive Committee Thursday turned thumbs down on plans for a run-over in Bacon County, and declared Andrew Tuten the Democratic Nominee for State Senator from the Forty-Sixth District.

In taking this action here, the State group upheld the Forty-Sixth District Senatorial Committee in a dispute with the Bacon County Democratic Executive Committee.

The County Committee had ordered a run-over between Tuten and Dorsey Dean. It had a rule which required a Senatorial candidate to obtain a majority of the votes in the primary.

The Senatorial Committee, however, said it had adopted a rule April 21, 1950, requiring only a plurality vote for nomination.

Tuten received 1,305 votes. Dean got 810, and C. J. Broome, the third candidate, got 895.

Towns Would Cut Fuller, Raise Others

A move to reduce Fulton County Manager A. E. Fuller's salary from its present $17,500 to $12,500 annually and to raise seven other salaries a total of $11,320 will confront County Commissioners Friday.

Commissioner Jack Towns stated Thursday afternoon he had prepared a resolution to this effect and would present it for the consideration of the full board when they meet in recess session at 10:30 a. m.

The salaries Towns anticipates raising are those of Fulton Sheriff A. B. Foster, Coroner Ed L. Almond, Chief Civil Court Judge Quincy O. Arnold, and four Civil Court Judges, Robert Carpenter, Paul S. Etheridge, Ralph S. McClelland and Wilson Parker.

Towns' resolution stated that the raises were authorized by a permissive act of the Georgia Legislature in its last session, and would increase the maximum pay scale on these offices as follows:

Sheriff, $8,180 to $10,000; Coroner, $5,000 to $7,000; Chief Judge, $9,000 to $10,500, and Civil Court Judges, $5,500 to $10,000.

Adoption of his resolution, Towns stated, would bring the County Manager's salary in line with that of constitutional officers who are receiving the increase. He pointed out the Commissioners had sole authority over the Manager's salary.

Towns hinted one paragraph of his resolution on an action Wednesday in which Fuller had suspended all county purchasing for 30 days because of a possible $200,000 budget deficit.

"In the light of this action, and since the Plan of Improvement is going to cut down on his duties pretty heavily, I think such reduction would be justified," Towns declared.

The County Manager plan in the primary last week received an overwhelming endorsement from the voters. Towns authorized a statement following the vote in which he said he intended to live up to the "exact letter of the County Manager law."

Hazlehurst: Joe Johnston, Jr., of Newtonville; V. M. Jones, of Dallas, and Benton Odum, of Newton.

The group directed the Ordinaries of Bacon, Coffee, and Pierce Counties to place Tuten's name on the general election ballot next November as the Democratic nominee.

'Bumping' Set For Airlines

WASHINGTON, July 6—(P)—

The airline announced Thursday that a passenger "bumping" rule will go into effect Friday, but it will be mostly a standby measure.

Under this procedure, the airlines will be permitted to remove passengers or cancel reservations when space is needed for military or Government officials in connection with the Korean situation.

The action is being taken by the Air Transport Association, agency for the scheduled air carriers, with permission of the Civil Aeronautics Board. The Board has authorized filing of such a rule on less than the usual 30-day notice.

An association official said no inconvenience is expected since the airlines have been able to handle all demands for space.

Key Material Cargo Cut Off From Orient

U. S. Bans Shipments Of Oil, Strategic Goods

By CHARLES E. EGAN

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 6—All shipments of oil and of materials with any possible war potential have been cut off from the Far East in moves by the Government to prevent essential supplies from falling into the hands of North Korean sympathizers. Combined actions by the Departments of State and Commerce have invoked a tight embargo affecting British port of Hong Kong as well as the Portuguese treaty port of Macao.

To date complete secrecy has surrounded the official actions. In the case of the Department of Commerce's office of industry and commerce, which exercises licensing powers to control exports of war potentials, applications for licenses for shipments of strategic materials are simply not being processed. The applications have been piling up in the Department since last Friday when the shutdown was put into effect but Department officials have not as yet advised exporters of the suspension.

State Department executives have kept quiet about their order affecting oil shipments to the Far East because they have been awaiting word from Britain and The Netherlands on the subject.

At the time it took action, the State Department sent informal requests to the governments of both Britain and The Netherlands for co-operation. The State Department let it be known that the embargo against oil could not be fully effective unless the two nations, which with the United States, control the bulk of oil production, would take similar action.

In the only official announcement issued Thursday in connection with controlling shipments, Commerce's Office of Industry and Commerce tightened restrictions on shipments of a number of products to all destinations except Canada.

Job Placement Planned To Aid Naval Reserve

Work for Fliers Seen Near Fields
In Effort To Discourage Resignations

The Navy is throwing its reserve activities into high gear locally as the Korean situation tightens. The Georgia Navy Recruiting station has been working over-time to sign up enlistees, and the Navy League shortly may become an employment agency for over 1,000 former Navy pilots a year.

The league, civilian arm of the Navy, announced it soon will begin a program aimed at obtaining employment for ex-fliers in vicinities where they can continue their Reserve flying training.

But while league members are disturbed over the fact that 55 percent of the retiring airmen are leaving the Reserve every year, the Navy Recruiting Station announced a pickup in the number of enlistees.

Lt. Cmdr. Rayner Hancock, of the Macon recruiting office, announced Thursday that 167 Georgians may sign on the dotted line and enter Naval service this month. Although 15 percent less than the total authorized for July, it still represents a substantial increase in enlistments over previous months.

Concern over the loss of Naval Reserve personnel resulted in the Navy League decision to sponsor the employment program.

"At the present time the Navy is losing $60,000,000 a year because its trained pilots are dropping out of the Reserve," the league's Georgia president, John L. Conner, said.

The Navy graduates about 1,050 pilots a year who remain in active service for a four-year period, then usually retire to the Reserve and civilian jobs, according to Education Plan Of N. C. Studied

Members of Georgia's State Board of Education are in Raleigh, N. C., for a two-day study of North Carolina's centralized public school administration.

The Georgia officials are interested in North Carolina's textbook program and in that State's arrangement whereby the financing of schools is maintained by a single division of the Board of Education.

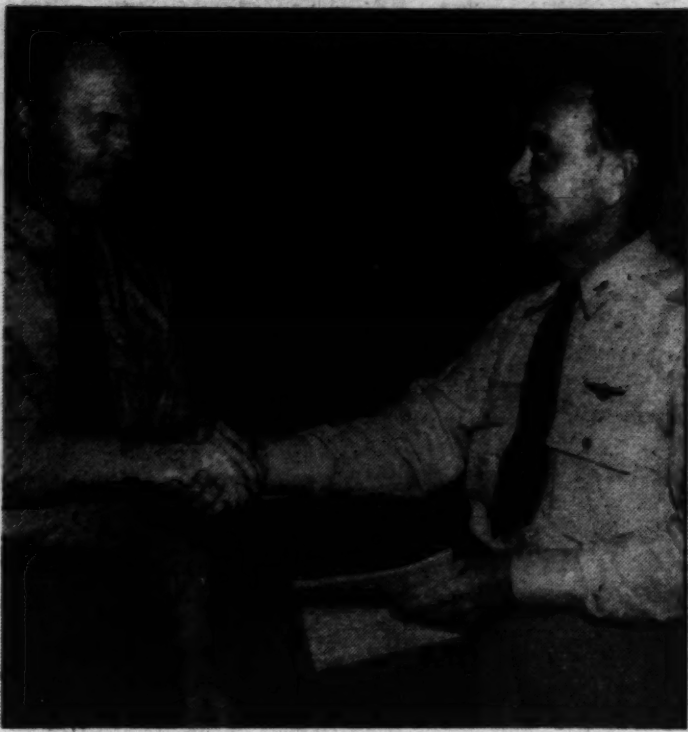

O'Hara Due In Rome By Saturday

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

ROME, July 6—Expulsion by the Communist-controlled Romanian government of Bishop Gerald Patrick O'Hara, of Savannah, Ga., Acting Nuncio to Bucharest, is "confirmation of the unquenchable hatred" felt by Moscow against the Catholic church, Osservatore Romano, Catholic newspaper, said Thursday.

Vatican circles said Bishop O'Hara was scheduled to arrive in Rome either Friday night or Saturday and report immediately to the Secretariat of State. Until his arrival no official decision will be made by the Vatican concerning his expulsion, although it was a foregone conclusion that a complete picture of the religious situation and of the tactics used by the Communists to persecute the Catholic church in Rumania would be presented for appraisal before world public opinion.

The Vatican newspaper termed the Communist charges of espionage leveled at Bishop O'Hara "puerile lies" which follow the usual pattern of Communist persecution.

NEW CAPTAIN—Capt. E. C. Parker (right) congratulates Cmdr. J. Frank Harper, USN, head of Surface Naval Reserve activities in the Atlanta area, on his promotion to Captain. Capt. Parker, Commanding Officer of the Naval Air Station at Chamblee, will be assigned to the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations in Washington, D. C., when he is relieved by Capt. J. D. Grier in August.

Admiral A. K. Doyle, Chief of the Navy Air Reserve training program.

He pointed out, however, that these men have been leaving Reserve rolls because they have been taking jobs in locales where Reserve training is impossible.

Under their new plan, the league hopes to establish liaison with civilian industry and obtain jobs for ex-fliers near Navy training stations or active Reserve units.

In Atlanta, the Navy Reserve is moving ahead rapidly. An organized Reserve Ship Supply Officers' Group is being established at the local reserve training center.

Cmdr. E. C. Johnson, Supply Corps Reserve Officer from the Sixth Naval District Headquarters in Charleston, presided at the organization meeting this week. The group will consist of 20 officers, including a commander, three lieutenant commanders, 16 other officers and two enlisted men, all with general supply experience.

Johnson said there also will be opportunity for three additional officers and one chief petty officer to join in an associate, or non-drill status.

Truman Raps Anti-Pike Vote

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP)—President Truman Thursday publicly reproached Democratic Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, of Colorado, saying Johnson votes more often with the Republicans than with the Democrats.

At a news conference, the President took Johnson to task for joining GOP Senators in voting against Summer T. Pike for another term on the Atomic Energy Commission.

Johnson, as head of the important Senate Commerce Committee, joined Republicans in adversely reporting the nomination to the Senate.

The President said the opposition to Pike was purely political—Republican politics if you please. The Senate will vote on the nomination Monday, Democratic leaders predict Pike will be confirmed.

Johnson was out of town on a South American trip, and was not due back until Thursday night. Therefore there was no immediate comment from him.

Apparently nettled over opposition to several of his recent nominations, the Chief Executive called the opposition to Pike, a Maine Republican, a foolish procedure. He said Pike had been confirmed twice before and it is pure politics to fight him now.

Potato Bug Charges Dusted Off With Diplomatic DDT by U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 6—(U.P.)—The State Department Thursday applied a strong dose of diplomatic DDT to Russia's formal charge that American warplanes dropped potato bugs over Eastern Germany, causing a serious food shortage.

"What has happened is obvious enough," the Department said in a drollish statement which ridiculed the Moscow Government for identifying itself with such puerile "propaganda."

"The Communist authorities in Eastern Germany have failed to bring the bug problem under control and protect the agriculture of other Soviet satellite countries and of the Soviet Union. Moreover, they are in need of an excuse for the anticipated (potato) shortage."

"Instead of holding them responsible for the hardships their failure will cause the people of Eastern Germany and Eastern Europe, the Soviet Government has resorted to a well-known device and invented a 'saboteur'—this time in the guise of the U. S. Air Force."

Sales Tax for State Favored by Blalock

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of articles about the newly nominated members of the 1951-52 Georgia Legislature.)

A sales tax is inevitable in the opinion of Edgar Blalock, of Jonesboro, who was nominated State Senator from the Thirty-Sixth District without opposition.

"I like the business world and I like to be classed as a business man," the Senator-Nominee asserts. "I feel that the State should be run on a business basis, bearing in mind at all times our obligation to all classes of our citizenry. I will actively support a

A few days after his defeat in 1939, he became distributor for Wofford Oil Company for Clayton, Fayette, part of Henry County and Hapeville in Fulton County. He is married to the former Blanche Gaffney, of Columbus. They have two boys, Ed and Gaffney. The Senator-Nominee is a steward and trustee of the Jonesboro Methodist Church and Associate Lay Leader of the Griffin District. He is a member of the Jonesboro Exchange Club.

Born in Culloden, Blalock has lived in Jonesboro since he was nine years old. He is a graduate of Georgia Military College, the University of Georgia and the National University Law School at Washington.

The newly nominated Senator is a brother of Dr. Alfred Blalock, chief surgeon at Johns Hopkins Hospital, who originated the "blue baby" operation.

Blalock served as secretary to the late Congressman Emmett Owen. When Owen died, Blalock ran for Congress. Although defeated by popular vote in Coweta County, he carried nine of the 15 counties in the Fourth Congress-

Georgia Holds Place in S. E. Census Area

Georgia, with a 9.4 percent increase in population over the 1940 census, retains its place as most populous State in the Southeastern Census Area, but lags behind an anticipated 12.6 percent increase over the nation.

Figures announced Thursday by Area Census Supervisor Thomas McWhirter reveal that the four Southeastern States in the area—Georgia, Tennessee, Florida and Alabama—show an average gain of 17.3 percent each.

Figures for the individual States are as follows:

	1940	1950	Increase
Georgia	2,132,723	2,341,130	9.4%
Tennessee	2,111,461	2,474,078	17.4%

Vote Pleas All Over—All Over Utility Poles

By BILL BORING

Georgia's highways look like the morning after an all-night carousal.

Bits of torn and crumpled and dirty cardboard swirl in the wake of passing automobiles. Disheveled posters peer drunkenly from every utility pole.

There's been an election, gentlemen had been in the race, but men, or several. From the heavily-even Talmadge himself wouldn't placard appearance of some of admit to winning a beauty contest the poles, one would expect to —to say nothing of Huie, Cravey find Tom Watson's picture if one Garrett, et. al.

The noise and excitement of us always. He's the tack-drivingest the election is gone... but the politician that ever come down debris lingers on—and on and on the pike.

From past performances, ex-opposition or not," a recent candidate said. "Huie gets his signs with you until Christmas at least, up early to scare 'em off."

Each passing utility pole on the 4-lane Highway 41 to Marietta, Huie: He can hammer straight for example, looks like the court-house bulletin board.

It wouldn't be so bad if more Huie isn't stingy with the tacks, either. Some of his posters are up the poles was Thompson. Per-holdovers from earlier races, while the two-tack boys' stuff flaps dog-earedly in the breeze.

About the only candidate in the "to mar the scenery with political recent Primary who didn't scar posters."

Scouts Depart Valley Forge

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., July 6—Jamboree city's legion of Boy Scouts lowered the colors over old Mount Misery Thursday and gave the hallowed hills of Valley Forge back to history.

Despite an intermittent drizzle, the 47,000 campers began the titanic task of dismantling the tent city where they have spent the last seven days. Mount Misery is the highest point in Valley Forge Park.

The first contingent scheduled to leave Valley Forge was a group from Seattle, Wash. Scouts from the host region—Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland—will be the last to depart on Saturday.

And on Monday a small army of workers will start the three-week job of restoring Valley Forge to its historic tranquility.

Crete Sending Mild-Smelling Goat To Truman as Symbol of Thanks

ROME, July 6—(P)—A rare mountain goat from Crete that "doesn't smell too strong" leaves Athens Friday by airliner (TWA) for Washington—a gift to President Truman and an expression of Crete's gratitude for Marshall Plan aid.

The Rome European Co-operation Administration office said the goat, named Kri-Kri, was caught by Estikios Protopapadakis, a Cretan mountaineer, soon after its birth in August, 1948.

Recently Protopapadakis told Boyd Woods, ECA supervisor in Crete, the people of Crete were grateful for United States aid and he would like to present the goat to President Truman on the island's behalf. The offer was accepted and Kri-Kri will go to the National Zoological Park, in Rock Creek Park, Washington, D. C.

The Simple Truth About "EASY TERMS"

It is often more convenient to buy a car out of income, rather than pay cash.

But to do so involves additional cost. So it is important to keep this cost as low as possible. For instance, twenty-four months of financing service costs twice as much as twelve.

The cheapest and best way to buy on time payment is to pay all you can down and pay as much per month as you can comfortably afford.

Don't be misled by so-called "Easy" payments. Take time to check on all costs as well as services proposed when you buy.

Party Merger Scouted By Political Leaders

Russell Idea of Strong GOP Meets Approval Through South

By WILLIAM M. BATES
United Press Staff Correspondent

Dixie political leaders see little hope of merging Southern Democrats and conservative Republicans into a new party although many echoed Georgia's Sen. Richard B. Russell's cry for a strong GOP in the South.

Leaders of all political faiths in the South—Republican, Democratic and States' Rights—were reluctant to endorse a lumping together of conservatives in this country into a new party.

Russell said earlier this week he believed "conservative" elements of both major political parties eventually "will get together in this nation." And the Georgian said he would like to see "a strong Republican party in the South."

Harry Sommers, GOP National Committeeman from Georgia, praised Russell for his "patriotic" statement.

"But I can't go along on a party based solely on conservatism," Sommers said. "I believe we should have progressives and conservatives in both parties... making for a variety of thought and a healthy condition."

State Democratic Chairman James S. Peters, a supporter of Gov. Talmadge, declared a "two-party system would be a very fine thing for the State. . . . Georgia loses much from a one-party system. . . . battles are fought over personalities rather than on issues." However, he declined to comment on the possibility of forming a new conservative party.

Georgia's liberal ex-Gov. Ellis Arnall termed such a merger as proposed by Russell as "impractical."

"There won't be a getting together of conservatives unless they abandon the name of the Republican Party," Arnall said. "I believe the Southern people will always vote the Democratic ticket."

Arnall said the only way the Dixiecrats carried four States in 1944 was by "stealing" the Democratic label.

Elsewhere over the South, E. L. Gavin, GOP nominee for Senate from North Carolina, said if Russell meant joining the forces who advocate balancing the budget and ending "this wild spending"—these groups must join together.

John Jackson, Louisiana's Republican National Committeeman, doubted that there would ever be a "formal alliance" between Dixie Democrats and Republicans. He foresees a "working alliance" from time to time. A New Orleans Truman Democrat, State Rep. Thomas Russell, said he had "always believed the States' Righters were

AUNT HET

I reckon Cousin Ed is gettin' tired of his wife bein' sick. He said yesterday he wished she'd get well, or somethin'.

Republicans under the skin." Louisiana States' Righter John Barr said "the principles of the Republican Party, as such, are not altogether in conformity with real Democrats."

Arms Chiefs Confident Despite Korean Losses

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP)—American Military leaders said Thursday the buildup of U. S. forces in South Korea is making steady progress and despite stiff reverses the battle situation is "not serious in any way."

Air and sea reinforcements are now being sped to the war zone, the high command said.

At his news conference, President Truman sounded a note of calm optimism in the face of some of the darkest reports yet received in the Far Pacific conflict.

Everything will work out all right, Mr. Truman said.

The President also told newsmen that at present he has no plans (1) to call up the National Guard or the Reserves, or (2) to ask Congress for more money for the armed forces.

As for industrial mobilization, Mr. Truman said the planning on that is up to date, but he would not say whether he might ask Congress for authority to swing the nation's industries to full or partial wartime production.

U. S. military headquarters at the Pentagon said assurances have been received from Gen. MacArthur that the situation of American field troops in the combat zone is not critical despite sharp gains scored by the Communist invaders from North Korea.

An Army spokesman here denied that an American infantry outpost had been "wiped out" by the Russian-trained invasion troops. He said the outpost withdrew with "very moderate" losses when its position became untenable.

Although it was apparent that American GIs had not yet taken part in any big-scale engagement, the Defense Department hinted that an American-led counteroffensive may not be far off.

The department said the buildup of vast quantities of supplies, weapons and ammunition—the prerequisites for a major counter blow—is going "quite well."

Military experts said one reason for the atmosphere of cautious optimism reflected in the Pentagon may be that American and British air power apparently is beginning to drive the enemy from the skies.

Frontline dispatches have reported the virtual disappearance of North Korean planes from the battle area.

On Capitol Hill, the Senate Armed Services Committee moved to get "all the facts" from military leaders about U. S. forces and supplies available in Korea, Japan and Europe.

Chairman Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, said Gen. Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will be asked to appear before the committee next Tuesday.

In other developments:

1. The Atomic Energy Commission announced that the Korean war will mean "no change" in plans to hold a new series of atomic weapons tests at Eniwetok.

Plans for the new tests were announced last November, but no date was given.

2. Rep. Bentsen, Democrat, Texas, a World War II veteran, urged Secretary of Defense Johnson to stop giving out information on movements of troops and supplies to the Korean theater.

Bentsen wrote Johnson that "as far as the GIs in the foxholes of Korea are concerned, and their parents and wives who are back home sweating them out," there is only one three-letter word for what is happening in Korea—war.

Georgians Escape Korea

The State Department announced Thursday that John W. Lamb, of College Park, and Isabel Rutherford, of Culloden, were among 194 of its employees evacuated from Korea because of fighting there. It said next of kin in the United States have been notified that the evacuees have reached Japan.

Mrs. J. V. Lamb, Sr., of College Park, said Mr. Lamb's wife, the former Chung Ai Lee, of Korea, and children, Marion Lee, 2, and 6-month-old Gerald David, had been with him in Korea. Lamb spent most of his three-year military service in the Far East, Mrs. Lamb said, and has been in Korea for two years as a civilian worker.

Isabel Rutherford's next of kin was listed as Robert Rutherford, of Culloden.

Use Merchant Ships, NMU Asks Truman

NEW YORK, July 6—(AP)—The CIO National Maritime Union Thursday asked President Truman to order thousands of laid-up merchant vessels readied for use again in view of the "Korean situation and tense world picture."

The union's head, Joseph Curran, telegraphed Mr. Truman that "thousands of merchant seamen and shipyard workers are unemployed and available for this important work in the interest of our nation's welfare and preparedness."

Russia Refuses Peace Reply

LONDON, July 7—(AP)—Russia served notice Friday that she does not intend to reply to Britain's representations on the war in Korea.

Britain, through her Ambassador in Moscow, Sir David Kelly, asked the Soviet government last week to co-operate in restoring peace in Korea. Russia already has turned down a similar request by the United States.

The official Soviet news agency, Tass, asserted in a dispatch broadcast by the Moscow radio that Kelly only expressed the hope that the Korean war eventually would be "regulated." Tass added: "It is obvious that the statement of the British Ambassador in Moscow requires no reply on the part of the Soviet government."

Martin Reports July 4 Air Action

By HAROLD MARTIN
Constitution Staff Writer

Distributed by the United Press

ABOARD THE USS VALLEY FORGE, July 4—(Delayed). Raiding the west coast of Communist Korea for the second consecutive day, carrier planes of the joint U. S. Seventh Fleet and the British task force representing the United Nations Tuesday destroyed railroad bridges and locomotives and left great fires burning in the freight marshalling yards from the North Korean capital of Pyongyang south to Haeju.

No pilots were lost, though one crippled dive bomber made a spectacular crash-landing on the deck of the USS Valley Forge.

No enemy aircraft challenged the fast flying jets and dive-bombing Skyraiders and Corsairs, but several of the slower prop-driven aircraft came back with holes made by anti-aircraft fire.

The Independence Day strike began with a straining sweep over the airfields which showed no signs of activity. Moving on from

This is the second eyewitness account of carrier based air action against North Korean targets written by Harold Martin for the combined American press.

The Pyongyang airfields to faster targets, a dozen Panther jets swept low over the railroad yards at the North Korean capital, exploding three locomotives.

While the Panther jets mauled rolling stock, prop-driven Navy Skyraiders and Corsairs pounded with 1,000-pound bombs the important railway bridge over the Taedong River, southwest of Pyongyang.

Over these bridges pass North Korean arms and supplies for their troops in the South. The loss will mean rail traffic must be routed circuitously to the west over a ferry connecting with a single track line.

Several direct hits were made on the double-tracked main bridge. Dive-bombers then smashed with rockets and bombs at the railroad marshalling yards north of the city, striking one locomotive, setting one oil or gasoline train afire, and battering tracks and installations.

On the flight back to the ship, the Skyraiders led by Lt. Cmdr. Norman D. Hodson, of Huntington Park, Cal., took a parting crack at the Onjongni rail yards where Lt. Marion Gallagher, of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, blew up a rolling locomotive with cannon fire.

British fighters from the carrier HMS Triumph flew the rail line, running east along the thirty-eight parallel from Maeju to Ongin, striking at targets of opportunity. They destroyed one railroad bridge and blasted five parked trucks loaded with North Korean troops.

The afternoon was something in the nature of a locomotive "turkey shoot." Using the World War II method of flying the rail lines, Lt. Hodson's Skyraider division made up of Hodson, Lt. Bill O'Connell, Coffeyville, Kans.; Ensign Wayne L. Hughes, Houston, Texas., and Ensign John Harris, Santa Cruz, Cal., rode the rails from Suwon-Ni north to Sariwon. At each of three small towns along the route, they blasted a locomotive, and in Sariwon they reported they destroyed four out of six.

Eight locomotives in all were knocked out in the afternoon strike and the total number of engines destroyed or badly damaged during the day was computed at 23.

Photographs taken during and after the bombing show heavy damage to important railway bridges and many large fires in railway yards.

War On, His Cry

ROME, July 6—(AP)—Pietro Nenni, leader of Italy's pro-Communist Socialists, told the Chamber of Deputies Thursday night that the "third World War started fall of Chonan, the eight-way rail and road hub only 33 miles north-west of Taejon.

Gen. MacArthur's communique earlier said that the North Korean First, Third and Fourth Divisions are spearheading the central thrust. Behind these tank-led units he reported the Communist enemy is moving up reinforcements "with troops, artillery and tanks."

U. S. troops are moving up in greater numbers. Front line commanders insist that only U. S. "vanguards" have been involved in the small but fierce collisions with the Communists thus far. An official spokesman also said that reports of casualties have been "greatly exaggerated."

The North Korean invaders already have planed the Red Star over a third of South Korea, or approximately 13,330 square miles. And they keep pouring reinforcements southward over the rain-drenched granite hills and rice paddies.

South Korean Defense Minister Sihm Sung-Mo said at advance headquarters that his troops will rally and drive "the North Korean devil" clear back across the thirty-eight parallel border to the Manchurian-Siberian frontiers.

The U. S. Far Eastern Air Force Command meanwhile announced that 22 North Korean planes have been destroyed, mostly by B-29 Superfort raids, in the first ten days of the war. Destroyed material included 156 enemy trucks, 11 locomotives and 28 rail cars.

Gen. MacArthur's Friday morning communique said:

"The co-ordinated infantry-tank assault on U. S. positions consisted of a large number of tanks with supporting troops. At least four tanks were disabled by direct artillery fire."

"U. S. troops withdrew after the action to a rendezvous for regrouping and organization."

MacArthur announced that "general reinforcements" of Red troops, artillery and tanks were being poured in from both the West and East coast against the American defense lines.

The port city of Inchon, southwest of Seoul, which had been flanked by the invaders, has fallen, however, MacArthur's communique reported.

"Inchon now is held by North Korean troops with some elements moving in the direction of the Suwon area toward the south-east."

Other Communist reinforcements reached the Samchok section on the east coast, and advanced, enemy elements were reported at Pohang, 20 miles south of Samchok, as the envelopment movement toward the central front region was pressed relentlessly.

Fighter planes flew 81 sorties and struck at railroad communications and trucks.

"The air lift continued to supply our Korean beachhead," said Gen. MacArthur's communique.

with the first bombs dropped on Korea." Nenni asked why Italy backed President Truman's stand in Korea. Christian Democrat deputies shouted, "In the interests of justice."

Will Take Formosa, China Reds Tell UN

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., July 6—(INS)—Communist China notified the United Nations Thursday night that it will "liberate Formosa without fail" despite "any military steps" taken by the United States Government.

The direct challenge to recent United States moves in the Far East—and particularly to President Truman's pledge of security to Nationalist-held Formosa—was contained in a cable from Chinese Communist Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai to United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie.

Sharply worded, the message appeared to be a declaration that if the U. S. keeps President Truman's promise to safeguard Formosa pending stabilization of the Korean war, it will find itself fighting Communist China.

In making the promise, President Truman exacted from the Chinese Nationalists the pledge that they would not make any

Soviet Embassy Gets Amtorg Data

NEW YORK, July 6—(AP)—Amtorg Trading Corporation, Soviet purchasing agency, six of whose officials were indicted last year for failure to register as foreign agents, has shipped a van load of filing cabinets to the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

A Brooklyn moving concern said one of its trucks, loaded with five and one-half to six tons of cabinets, left Amtorg's 210 Madison Avenue offices for Washington Tuesday night.

No reason for the transfer of documents was disclosed, but in the Embassy they would not be subject to subpoena.

The United Nations, which has supported overwhelmingly the U. S. intervention in Korea, is split on the question of Communist China.

Many UN members, including Britain and India, have withdrawn recognition from Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist regime based on Formosa, and have reached diplomatic accord with the Chinese Communists.

In accusing both the United States and the United Nations of "illegal" intervention and aggression, the Chinese Communist leader closely echoed Soviet statements which first hurled the charges.

War Peril To Augment Blood Plan

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Gravity of war conditions in the Orient for the past two weeks has made "even more urgent" the expansion of the national blood program, Dr. Sam Gibson, Assistant Medical Director of the Red Cross National Blood Program, said here Thursday night.

Addressing the Fulton County Medical Society, Dr. Gibson, a native of Georgia, pointed out:

"We should be prepared to supply blood if ever it should be needed in large quantities."

Dr. Gibson said there were 33 Red Cross blood centers in the country and they collected and distributed about 750,000 pints of blood last year.

"But the need for blood is increasing," he noted. "For example, the development of antibiotics has made possible many operations which we would not have dreamed of performing 10 years ago. And they call for more blood transfusions."

Dr. Irving Greenberg, Chairman of the Medical Advisory Committee, Atlanta Red Cross Blood Center, reported 1,098 pints of blood a month were donated here in 1948 and 1,354 pints a month were given in 1949.

"But if we are to meet the current demand," he said, "we should have 3,500 pints a month."

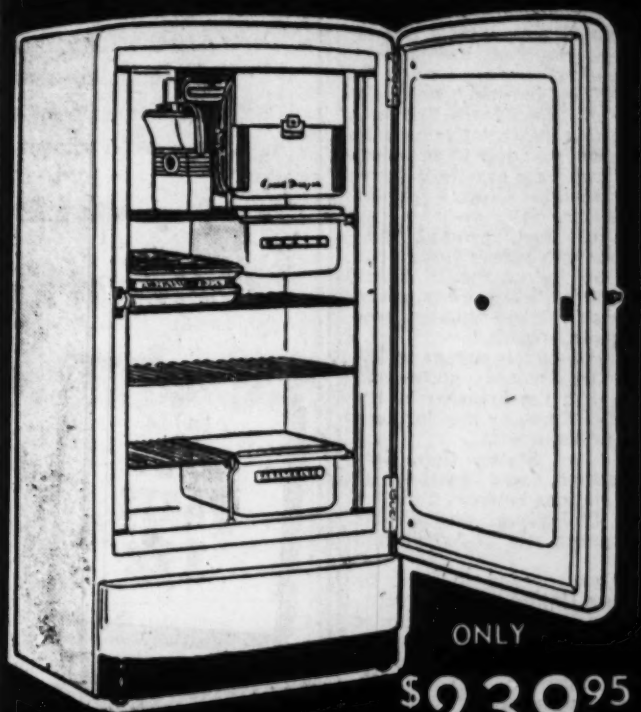

Other speakers were Dr. George

$200 Million Radio Net Around Russia Sought

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution
WASHINGTON, July 6—A $200,000,000 ring of American radio stations to encircle the Soviet Union and satellite countries and to overmatch in volume the present Soviet wireless propaganda voice was recommended Thursday by Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff.

General Sarnoff, Chairman of the Board of the Radio Corporation of America, told a Senate subcommittee that the United States was now "tragically" behind the Russians in use of international radio.

The Soviet Union and its satellites, he said, were putting out to the world 832 hours of programs a week; the United States 192 hours.

The subcommittee is holding hearings on a bipartisan resolution, by Sen. William Benton, Democrat, Connecticut, and 12 Senate colleagues, calling for a vast increase in American "propaganda of truth" in every field.

The State Department has before President Truman now a plan for a major expansion in its "Voice of America" information service—but not an expansion, so far as is yet known of the proposal, nearly so great as what Gen. Sarnoff was recommending.

He testified in effect not only that the Russians were far out-reaching this country for the ears of the peoples living in between, but that they were greatly increasing propaganda directed to the United States itself.

"I am informed," he said, "that in the past two weeks Russia has stepped up its service to North America to 24 hours a day, seven days a week. These Russian programs are in English."

The timing of this change in Soviet tactics would correspond roughly with the invasion of the Republic of Korea by the Northern Korean Communists.

The United States, Gen. Sarnoff testified, was particularly weak in stations between Tangiers and the Philippines, through the Mediterranean and in Arabia and India.

What was needed in sum, he said, was a United States Government campaign to build, to acquire or to use co-operatively radio stations wherever free governments would permit.

He recommended the establishment of a commission to study the whole broadcasting subject and

Capone Mob Revived, Solons Told

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP)—Senators were told Thursday that the old Al Capone gang—the notorious "syndicate"—has revived and established tieups with mobs of racketeers over the nation.

Virgil Peterson, Director of the Chicago Crime Commission, gave that testimony to the Senate Crime Investigating Committee and added that one of Syndicate's alliances is with "members of the so-called Frank Costello gang in New York."

Peterson gave the committee a list of two dozen men he said were associated with Capone when he was riding high as a prohibition beer baron, rum runner and general vice overlord. Some of those men, he said, grew in influence after Scarface Al was jailed for income tax evasion in the thirties.

Charles Fischetti and Tony Accardo were listed by Peterson as two of the main gang leaders in Chicago today.

Others on his list of Capone associates include Hymie (Loud Mouth) Levin, Louie (Little New York) Campagna, Ralph Capone, Anthony (Mops) Volpe and Sam (Golf Bag) Hunt.

"Many of these individuals are still important members of the Capone syndicate of 1930," Peterson said.

Several witnesses have expressed disbelief in any nationwide crime syndicate such as Peterson said exists.

Greer Ponders Running for Speaker Post

Rep. John Greer, of Lakeland, who managed M. E. Thompson's campaign for Governor, said Thursday he was considering running for Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Speaker Fred Hand, who was renominated as one of Mitchell County's Representatives without opposition, is expected to seek reelection as the presiding officer.

"I have been asked by several members of the House to offer for the post of Speaker," said Greer. "I am considering making the race. I will contact other members of the House and then make my decision."

Greer won renomination as Lanier County's Representative over Robert Patten, even while devoting almost all of his time to working in Thompson's campaign headquarters in Atlanta. He and Rep. "Mugsy" Smith, of Fulton County, authored the Anti-Mask Bill.

Streamliner's Mail Car Leaps Track Into Side of Speeding Chief

MONICA, Ill., July 6—(AP)—Two high-speed Santa Fe Railway streamliners, streaking eastward side by side, bumped midsections in a freak collision Thursday that brought crushing death to nine persons and injuries to about 75.

Senate Vetoes Shift Of RFC Jurisdiction

WASHINGTON, July 6—(UP)—The Senate Thursday vetoed President Truman's plan to put the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under jurisdiction of the Commerce Department, then turned around and approved one of his housing agency shifts.

The RFC turndown was put can either kill them by a majority through by voice vote after Sen. J. William Fulbright, Democrat, Arkansas, urged his colleagues to wait until he finishes investigation of the agency before deciding what to do.

It was the sixth presidential government reorganization plan slapped down by the Senate after 27 submitted to Congress this year. Sixteen have so far become law.

The Senate approved, 43 to 30, a proposal to shift the Federal National Mortgage Association from the RFC to the House and Home Finance Agency. The FNMA, known to builders and bankers as "Fannie May," buys mortgages from banks so they can lend more money for home building.

Since the House has made no move to kill the transfer, it becomes law Sunday but will not go into effect until Sept. 9. The effort to reject it was led by Sens. Walter F. George, Democrat, Georgia, and Harry P. Cain, Republican, Washington.

Four other reorganization plans are still before Congress which

The crash came at a stretch of tracks near Monica where daily the 90-miles-an-hour El Capitan flyer from Los Angeles passes the 76-miles-an-hour Kansas City Chief from Kansas City.

Both trains were bound for Chicago, 148 miles northeast.

As the El Capitan began pulling ahead, its mail car lurched, left the tracks, and jackknifed into the first car and side of the Chief's locomotive.

It was 4:40 a. m. Central Standard Time. The men's wash room of the El Capitan coach was crowded with men. They were shaving before going to breakfast in the diner. Many passengers still were asleep on both trains.

The collision slammed the El Capitan's coach back across its own tracks. The locomotive and several forward cars of the El Capitan broke loose and barreled down the tracks. The El Capitan's rear cars piled into the wreckage.

Sleeping passengers were bounced around in the cars like rubber balls. Twisted metal trapped some in their seats.

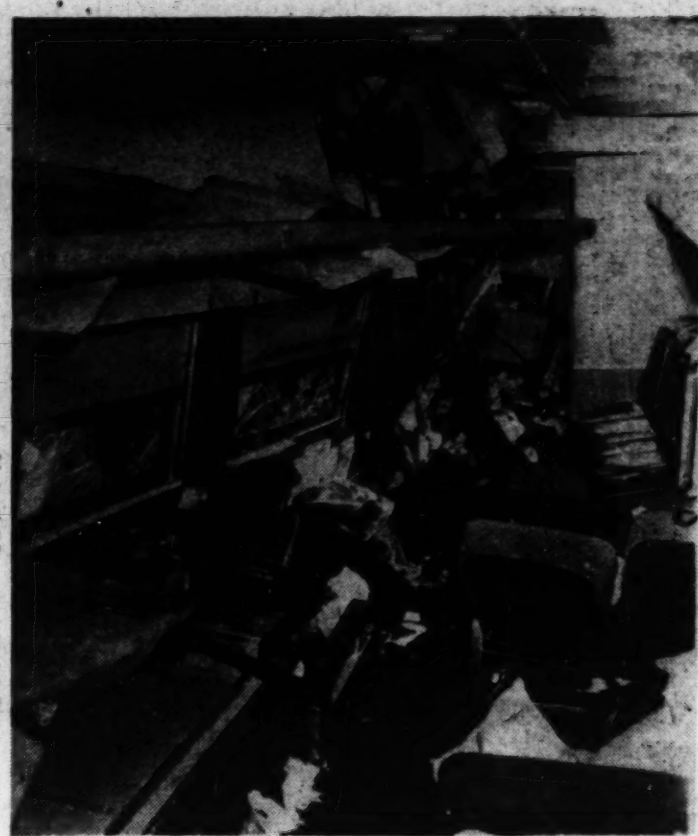

Four of the dead were in the washroom of an El Capitan coach. They were slammed into the walls and crushed to death.

The locomotive and two front cars of the Chief also left the tracks.

Several cars telescoped and tracks were torn up for a quarter of a mile.

All available doctors, nurses and ambulances were rushed to the scene. Victims were taken to hospitals in Peoria, 20 miles south of the small village of Monica, and to Galesburg, 30 miles west.

Thirty-eight were hospitalized, some in critical condition, and the others were given first aid at the scene.

Officials said an investigation of the wreck had started, but the cause has not been determined.

The El Capitan is a 15-car all-coach extra fare train. The Chief is a combined Pullman and coach express.

Dumas Urges Corporate Tax Slashes

Hal S. Dumas, of Atlanta, President of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, was a witness Thursday before the Senate Finance Committee, in Washington, in opposition to proposed higher corporate tax and excise rates. Instead, Dumas urged that some of these taxes be reduced.

The proposed 15 percent tax rate of local telephone service for business, Dumas said, is 50 percent higher than the luxury tax of such items as jewelry and furs. In regard to the proposed 10 percent tax of residential telephone service, Dumas said:

"It is almost unbelievable that this is proposed to be taxed at 10 percent, while short-haul transportation, water, gas and certain uses of electrical energy are now tax exempt. . . . Telephone service in the home is not a luxury—it is an essential like water, gas and electricity."

Dumas said this proposed tax would make the rural telephone program of his company much more difficult to put into effect. He also objected to the proposal to increase the corporate tax rate from 38 percent to 41 percent. He said that such a tax rate put telephone service in the luxury class while "the entire public has come to regard it as an absolute necessity."

Other witnesses suggested a slash of $2,400,000,000 in the so-called luxury taxes. The House has already approved a cut of $1,010,000,000 in these taxes.

Court Denies Best's Appeal

BOSTON, July 6—(AP)—The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals Thursday denied the appeal of Robert Henry Best, of Sumter, S. C., from his conviction for treason.

The 54-year-old former newspaperman was sentenced two years ago to life imprisonment and fined $10,000 for broadcasting Nazi propaganda to the United States during World War II.

Best, who has been in Charles Street jail since his conviction, was brought to the U. S. Marshal's office and handed a copy of the 29-page opinion. It was expected he would appeal the case to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Secondary Road Construction Must Wait Highway Survey

Gillis Says Improvements Proceeding On Backlog of Federal Aid Contracts

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Inauguration of the Gholston-Talmadge formula law for constructing secondary roads, scheduled to go into effect July 1, will be delayed six months because a survey of road needs in the 159 counties has not been completed.

This was revealed Thursday by State Highway Chairman James Gillis, who said the study of road needs has been in progress for the past few months. The formula, enacted into law by the Legislature early this year, requires the Highway Board to give priority on secondary road construction to counties having the lowest amount of road improvement.

In the meantime, the Department will be letting contracts on a backlog of Federal-aid primary and secondary roads which will not be affected by the new formula. They were approved and funds earmarked for them before passage of the law.

At the close of the fiscal year, June 30, the Department had $27,255,909 worth of Federal-State Highway contracts ready for letting—but not yet placed under contract. This was a backlog of unspent Federal and State funds for the past year or two. Difficulty in obtaining rights-of-way for some of these projects and the Department's inability to complete detailed plans for many of them delayed the letting of contracts, Gillis said.

However, this was a much-reduced number of holdover projects for the new fiscal year as compared with previous years, Gillis asserted. An enlarged drafting staff made it possible for the Department to prepare plans and get rid of a big backlog of contracts during the past fiscal year, he added. At the time the Legislature was in special session in July, 1949, there were $47,000,000 worth of holdover projects not let to contract.

Gillis Thursday sent out an SOS for 25 more draftsmen to help complete detailed plans for the $27,255,909 in road projects. He asked the State Merit Board to find these draftsmen for him.

Discussing the Gholston-Talmadge formula, Gillis said there was a misunderstanding about the bill as finally passed. Sen. Knox Gholston's original bill required the Board to spend the secondary money in the 4 "most neglected" counties. As finally passed by compromise, however, the bill merely says the money shall be spent on the "most neglected" counties, without enumerating them, Gillis said.

Aside from the delay in inaugurating the Gholston-Talmadge formula for building of secondary roads, the Department already is moving into its long-range overall road building program, the Chairman reported.

Job Rights Held For UN Soldiers

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—The CIO Textile Workers Union said Thursday a new one-plant contract protects seniority rights of employees who go to war under the banner of the United Nations.

The TWU called it the first contract of its kind.

However, many contracts protect men during military service with U. S. forces.

The contract was signed Wednesday between the union and Louis Reiss & Sons, Inc., to cover about 100 employees—half of them men.

Travel Limits Reciprocal

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The United States has told Communist Romania it intended to limit travel by Romanian diplomats to a 35-mile area around Washington as long as similar restrictions are applied to United States officials in Bucharest.

A note delivered Monday rejected a Romanian protest against the "tit for tat" travel restrictions.

Improvements on U. S. 41, the Coastal Highway, and other heavily traveled primary roads for the next three or four years, Gillis reported. "Although our planning unit will be working on its survey for six months yet, we already are co-ordinating our contract lettings with the long-range program now being drafted."

In the meantime, Gillis said that Federal funds for the new fiscal year have not yet been approved by Congress. Georgia received $20,600,000 in Federal funds for the past fiscal year. Gillis said the new bill calls for a little more than this amount.

which the United States imposed in May.

It said that when Romania was disposed to remove its limitations on American officials, the United States would "alter accordingly" its "reciprocal limitation of diplomatic privilege" on the Romanians here.

The note was made public Thursday by the State Department.

Most of the modern buildings on the Chinese island of Formosa were built during 50 years of Japanese occupation.

Duke Snider to Start For National League

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—President Ford Frick of the National League said Thursday he had granted Burt Shotton's request to make a change in his starting lineup for Tuesday's All-Star game in Chicago.

Shotton, the National's All-Star pilot, had pleaded that the fans voted him two left fielders and a right fielder for his starting team. That left him without a center fielder.

Shotton asked for and received permission to replace Hank Sauer, of Chicago with Duke Snider, of Brooklyn. Snider will open in center. Enos Slaughter of St. Louis will start in right and Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh will be in left.

"I phoned Commissioner Chandler and informed him of our situation," Frick said. "He agreed to the change. Snider was named because he received the most votes for center field."

"We want to win this one," he said. "If we are winning I'm not going to take anybody out just to give another fellow a chance to get in the game. It's honor enough to have been chosen. We want to win. That's the most important thing."

Shotton, who has been criticized for not naming a St. Louis pitcher or Boston's Johnny Sain on his eight-man squad, defended his mound choices.

"Before I picked my pitcher," he said, "I had every manager in

60-Game Set New Wimbledon Mark

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6.—(AP)—Louise Brough and Mrs. Margaret DuPont won the All-American women's single semi-finals at Wimbledon Thursday but most of the capacity crowd couldn't have cared less.

The spotlight was stolen from the women by the longest doubles match these famous all-England lawn tennis courts have ever seen—four hours and five minutes during which Budge Patty and young Tony Trabert finally overcame Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor, Australia, 6-4, 31-29, 7-9, 6-2.

Miss Brough, the defending champion from Beverly Hills, Calif., scored a surprisingly easy 6-4, 6-2 victory over Doris Hart, Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. DuPont, American titlist from Wilmington, Del., won quite a struggle from Mrs. Pat Todd, La Jolla, Calif., 8-6, 4-6, 6-5.

Miss Brough and Mrs. DuPont, longtime doubles partners, will battle it out Saturday for the Wimbledon crown for the second successive year. Miss Brough beat her partner last year, 10-8, 1-6, 10-8.

Both Mrs. DuPont and Mrs. Todd were erratic in their match. Mrs. DuPont had set point in the tenth game of the first set only to lose the game. Mrs. Todd had one set point in the twelfth game and Mrs. DuPont finally won the set in the fourteenth when two of Mrs. Todd's returns failed to clear the net after hesitating on the top cord.

Mrs. Todd broke Mrs. DuPont's service three times in winning the second set and rallied from 3-5 to even the final set at 5-all.

It looked as if Mrs. Todd was going to win when she picked up a love game after a 10-minute rain break. But Mrs. DuPont held her service and broke her opponent's in the thirteenth game. She finished off in beautiful style with a sizzling passing shot to the left of Mrs. Todd on the first set point.

Trabert, a 19-year-old Cincinnati collegian playing on this side of the Atlantic for the first time, was the real hero of the tremendous doubles match.

It was the youngster who carried Patty, a Wimbledon veteran, to victory. He served 15 games in the long set and won 14 of them. His play at the net was brilliant and his drives and services were by far the fastest on the court. After winning he said he'd stick around.

The three doubles finals—men's, women's and mixed—will be contested Saturday along with the women's singles final.

Thursday also brought the end of the 1950 Wimbledon trail for (Gorgeous) Gussie Moran. Already beaten in singles and women's doubles, she bowed out with Adrian Quist in a mixed doubles quarterfinal to George Worthington and Mrs. Thelma Long, Australia, 8-6, 6-1.

Saddler To Fight In Atlanta

Sandy Saddler, the man Featherweight Champion Willie Pep refused to fight for $100,000, will box a 10-rounder here next month.

Saddler won the world's featherweight crown Oct. 29, 1948, by knocking out Willie Pep in the fourth round of a scheduled 15-rounder. That was the only occasion Pep has been flattened.

Willie regained the title four months later on a split and much disputed decision.

Twenty-two years old, the stringy Saddler has KO'd 75 opponents since he began his career in 1944. He holds the junior lightweight crown by virtue of a December decision over Orlando Zulueta.

Sandy is currently ranked the top contender for Pep's title. During May, he stopped ninth-rated Lauro Salas in nine rounds and won a 10-round decision from Jesse Underwood.

Mumbill Sam Sobel, who will promote the Saddler fight, received word from Sugar Ray Robinson's manager—George Gainsford—that Robinson will definitely be able to fight in Atlanta after his title bout with Charlie Fusari Aug. 9.

Beau Jack and Johnny Eddington fight here July 17, in the first of a series of Summer boxing cards planned by Sobel.

Rees Leads in British Open; Three U. S. Players Survive

By GLENN WILLIAMS

TROON, Scotland, July 6.—(AP)—Three Americans clattered into the final of the British Open championship Thursday but Dai Rees, a Welshman with a putter that worked like a fairy's wand, led the pack with a two-round score of 71-68—139.

Totals of 148 or less qualified 35 players from all over the world for Friday's two 18-hole rounds. Behind those three the field lined up like this: Eric Moore, South Africa, 74-68—142; Max Faulkner, Great Britain, 72-70—142; Fred Bullock, Great Britain, 71-71—142; John Bulla, Pittsburgh, 73-70—143; Roberto di Vincenzo, Argentina, 72-71—143; Hector Thomson, Scotland, 71-72—143; F. E. Allott, Great Britain, 72-71—143.

A couple of Wednesday's leaders got detoured in the rough. Bulla might just as well have had a 65 as the par 70 he put together. He got pars on each of the first three holes—but on every one a birdie putt curled away. Stranahan began with a birdie, running down a 10-footer on the first green, but he missed a short one on the fifth hole. Smashing a tremendous drive on the 12th, he pitched up and hit the pin, then sank his two-foot putt for a birdie three—a feat that bucked him up because he gained two strokes on Locke on that hole. Locke three-putted there, missing a 14-inch tap. Behind Rees, Second went to Bill Branch, ailing English pro, who needed three licks to retrieve himself from a bunker on the par three fifth and took a fat six. McHale holed a 50-foot putt for a birdie three on the second hole but things went wrong from there.

Rees strode in with a par 70 Thursday after his total of the 6,583-yard Troon course, where the fairways are hardly wider than the aisles in a big church. That made his total 143—four behind Rees. Stranahan also had a 70 for a two-day score of 147 while McHale duplicated his 73 of the day before for 146. Only skinny Art Clark, of Huntington, W. Va., with 74-76—150, failed among the Americans to make Friday's field. Locke, playing with Stranahan, three-putted himself to a 73 that gave him 141 and third place behind Rees. Second went to Bill Branch, ailing English pro, who

Hinnershitz Resting Here

Tommy Hinnershitz, the nationally famous big-car race driver who cracked up at Lakewood in the Fourth of July race, is resting for a few days at Crawford Long Hospital before heading back East to get ready for his next start at Harrington, Del., July 29.

Hinnershitz received a slight fracture of the pelvis when his car careened out of control with a blowed-out rear tire in Tuesday's race. He also received abrasions and brush burns.

The Eastern AAA champion of 1949 remained here for a rest at the advice of physicians. He had already chartered a plane for a flight back East Tuesday night when he heeded the advice of the physicians and canceled the flight. He was advised that he could go ahead and make plans for the July 29 big race.

Mobile Protest Lost; Other Ruling Today

By JESSE OUTLAR

Pres. Charlie Hurth announced in New Orleans Thursday night that Atlanta's protest of Mobile's 8-7 victory in Mobile on June 29 has been disallowed.

Ruling on the Birmingham protest of Atlanta's 5-1 victory in the first game of a doubleheader here July 4 will be made Friday.

In making his decision, Hurth said, "I have studied both reports and am thoroughly convinced that Atlanta's protest cannot be upheld."

Girard's account on paper varied considerably with what happened at Hartwell Field.

Walker, when informed of the decision Thursday night, was amazed and inquired, "What do you have to do to win a protest?"

"An umpire-in-chief violates a League rule openly and our protest isn't allowed."

Pres. Earl Mann, who didn't see the game but received reports from a non-biased spectator who has no interest in either club, was surprised at the ruling.

Mann said he would study the official reports before making any statement other than "I'm disappointed."

However, Mann intimated that he may ask Hurth to hold a hearing on the game.

The Birmingham protest, which Hurth will rule on Friday, developed as a result of Walker listing the wrong pitcher on the official line-up turned over to the umpires prior to the game.

Dixie, unintentionally, listed Carl Lindquist as the Cracker pitcher, but started Al Hennescheck.

A partial text of Hurth's decision in the Atlanta-Mobile game follows:

"The game of June 29—Atlanta at Mobile—was protested by Manager 'Dixie' Walker, of the Atlanta Club. Walker talked to me long distance and followed the conversation with a written report on his protest.

"The essence of the protest was based on the rule allowing a manager to remove himself instead of the pitcher after two conferences with the pitcher in the same inning. Walker also protested the refusal of Umpire Girard to allow a protest to be announced at the time he made it....

"The report of Girard, given over long-distance and by written report, differs substantially from the report of Walker.... Girard, in an effort to speed up the game (the first inning took 50 minutes to play) did order the relief pitcher to come in. Girard did not order out the starting pitcher. Girard stated that the starting pitcher left the game with Walker standing on the mound and did so with full consent and knowledge of Walker, that Walker stood by as the relief warmed up, that after the starting pitcher had left the

Lou Thesz Battles McCoy Friday Night

One of the biggest cards in local wrestling history is slated for Friday night at the Atlanta Auditorium.

The highlight of the slate is a heavyweight championship bout between titleholder Lou Thesz, of St. Louis, Mo., and contender Bibber McCoy, Cambridge, Mass.

The other one fall to a finish match lists Art Nelson, the challenger from Windsor, Ontario, Canada, and Atlanta's Don McIntyre.

In a secondary scrap, Tex Riley goes against the fabulous Tarzan White. Two 20-minute-limit bouts complete the card. Nick Carter faces Red Roberts and Jimmy Coffield meets Hard Knox.

Amateur players have won the U. S. Open golf championship six times, with Bob Jones contributing four of these victories.

Refreshments will be served.

The Atlanta Soap Box Derby, sponsored by The Atlanta Journal, The Atlanta Constitution and metropolitan Atlanta Chevrolet dealers, will be held on the new Expressway at Tenth street Saturday morning and afternoon, July 15. The derby is free to the public.

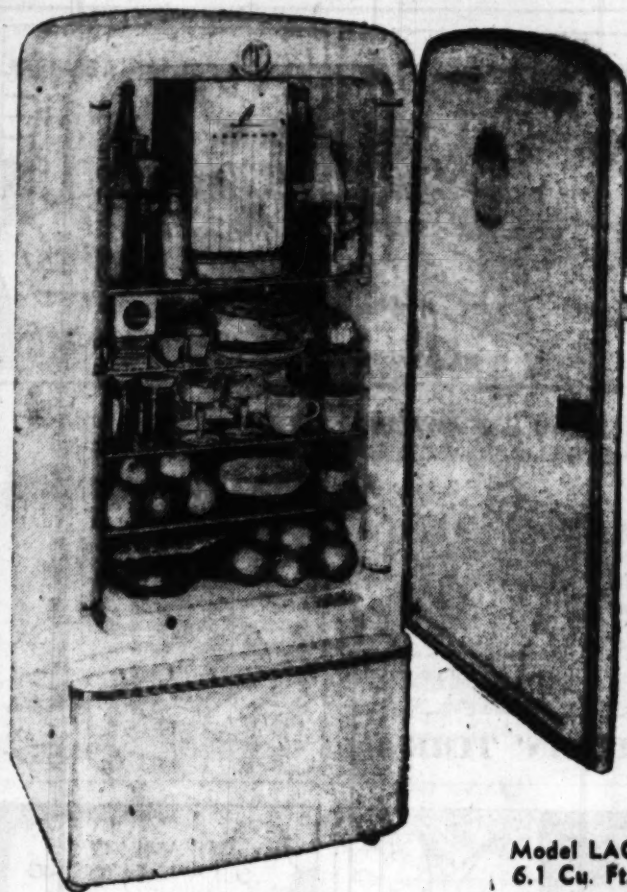

Notary Fee Okay in Pen

Federal Judge M. Neil Andrews deliberated more than an hour Thursday before ruling that an Atlanta Penitentiary commissary clerk violated no Federal laws in charging a prisoner 25 cents for notary services.

Judge Andrews refused to grant an injunction sought by the prisoner, Donald E. Hasson, who cited a Federal law prohibiting prison officials from charging fees for notarizing legal documents.

Assistant District Attorney H. H. Tisinger, acting for the Government, cited another law directing wardens and superintendents to arrange for the appointment of some employee as a notary, to charge a maximum of 25 cents for his services. Tisinger told the court that granting of the injunction would abolish a long-standing custom here and in 27 other Federal institutions.

Legal Backing for the Zoning Board

What can the Fulton County Planning and Zoning Commission accomplish if County Commissioners persist in reversing its decisions?

Acting in many cases under political pressures, County Commissioners have developed the habit of overruling the Zoning Board's decisions.

More than half the cases brought before County Commissioners at Wednesday's meeting were decided contrary to previous rulings of the Zoning Board.

Among them was a petition for rezoning property at the new Marietta Highway and West Pace's Ferry Road. The Zoning Board twice has turned down proposals to allow commercial development at the intersection. Reasons for its action were available to County Commissioners. Among them was the proposed projection of the new expressway which ultimately might necessitate expensive condemnation of structures to be erected. The Board also found there is no need for more commercial development of that area at present, particularly in view of the fact that this primarily is a residential area.

But whether this area should be rezoned is beside the point. The point is that the Zoning Board has studied petitions twice. It has taken all the facts into painstaking consideration. Months have been spent formulating rulings based on these facts. Yet, County Commissioners, with a cursory glance at the facts and with ears attuned to political pressures, have undone in a few minutes all the effort that has gone into the Zoning Board's decisions.

Another good example of the confused situation is the action of County Commissioners in reversing a three-year-old decision of their own in stopping construction of a proposed $800,000 apartment house off Roswell Road.

Whether or not this apartment house ought to be built also is beside the point. But three years ago the property was rezoned for that purpose. A building permit has been issued. The builder claims $75,000 already has been spent. Now he is told he cannot proceed. Quite possibly the Commissioners have laid the county open to legal action.

The Planning and Zoning Commission is comprised of our most respected citizens. It is headed by Joseph C. Greenfield, trust officer for one of the city's leading banks. Other members are Dr. Allen Albert Jr., Emory University professor and head of the Local Government Commission; Henry Toombs, well-known architect; Sam R. Young, President of the Atlanta & West Point Railway, and Harold T. Patterson, of the Federal Reserve Bank.

But County Commissioners can and do overrule without hesitation the findings and decisions of this distinguished body.

The Planning and Zoning Commission's decisions ought to be final by law. Otherwise it should be abolished. Under the present situation County Commissioners are merely using the Zoning Board as a pawn to halt projects that would be politically disadvantageous, disregarding the Board when it is politically advisable to do so.

Best Wishes To Everett Millican

We join his thousand of friends in the county and over the State in wishing a speedy recovery to Fulton's Senator-Nominee Everett Millican.

Mr. Millican, who has served the county, the city and the State well in previous terms as member of the General Assembly's upper house, was injured in an unusual Fourth of July accident at his Summer camp near Hiwassee. He now has been brought to an Atlanta hospital.

We trust his recovery will be quick and complete.

Red 'Peace' Propaganda in Atlanta

Hundreds of Atlantans have been duped into signing the Communist "Stockholm Peace Proposal," which is nothing more than a Russian propaganda trick.

The "Peace Proposal" was passed March 19 in Stockholm at the World Congress of Partisans for Peace, a Communist outfit similar to Communist "peace" organizations the world over—one of which was held in New York sometime ago.

It is a complete fraud. Eastern Europeans under the domination of Moscow are signing the thing by the millions. Added thousands of names will be obtained from the unsuspecting in this country who sign it without reading it.

Eventually the 70,000,000 odd names attached to the proposal will be dumped into the lap of the United Nations with the beating of Soviet drums.

What the "Peace Proposal" would do is to "demand the unconditional prohibition of the atomic weapon as an instrument of aggression and mass extermination of people, and the establishment of strict international control over the fulfillment of this decision. We will regard as a war criminal that government which first uses the atomic weapon against any country. We call upon all people of good will over the world to sign this appeal."

What the document does not say is more important than what it says. Here is the analysis of Gordon Dean, member of the Atomic Energy Commission:

"Ten million Russians, equipped with tanks, artillery bombs and bombers might be overrunning the world, but if one of the Western powers should attempt to break the invasion and retaliate with the A-bomb, the nation so retaliating—not the original aggressor—becomes the war criminal."

Most likely the resolution purposely was so framed.

If Russia is so intent on international control of the atomic bomb why then does not the Kremlin consent to the United Nations control plan? Russian representatives repeatedly have refused to accept the clause which permits free international inspection of atomic facilities. Yet, in this Moscow-sponsored resolution is made a demand for such inspection. It is but another example of Russian duplicity.

This fraudulent resolution has been circulated in New York and other cities as well as in Atlanta. Everybody ought to be on guard against it. It is certain to be used against us.

Lawson Hospital To Be Closed

Some weeks ago the Veterans' Administration announced plans for closing Lawson Hospital here, transferring its activities to Oliver General Hospital in Augusta, and converting Hospital 48 on Peachtree Road to a general hospital.

The announcement set off a whirlwind of protests from the American Legion and other veteran groups. Congressmen were pressured into going direct to the White House to effect a cancellation of the order. President Truman did temporarily stay the changes pending a further investigation, promising no move would be made until all the facts had been re-evaluated.

Last week the VA again announced that Lawson would be closed and the other contemplated changes effected.

Plainly, on its second examination the VA found no new facts to warrant cancellation of its original plans.

The only question involved is whether veterans will receive adequate medical attention. We believe they will. Moreover, the changes will mean a considerable saving in taxpayers' money.

We, too, would like to see Atlanta retain all such facilities possible. But we do not want them as a result of purely political pressure and at the expense of economy and efficiency.

THE PULSE OF THE PRESS

Roy Missed None

(Savannah Evening Press)

Roy Harris has issued a statement on the taxes Georgia will need for its promised program. We must say that for once Roy has been impartial, he hasn't neglected a single tax.

Distressing Fact

(Jackson Herald)

It is a distressing fact, according to announcement of the Census Bureau, that many Georgia counties have lost in population during the last ten years. The State made a slight gain in the number of people within its borders, but this was largely in towns and cities. Among the counties with fewer people than ten years ago is Jackson. While the population of Jefferson is greater in number by 202, Jackson County has decreased 1,102. The population of Jefferson is 2,041, while Jackson is 18,987.

Eleven other counties in the Ninth District have declined in population. This is due largely to three causes: Better pay in industries than on farms, the use of farm machinery and equipment in cultivating lands and the gradual weaning from the production of cotton. There are other reasons for fewer people on the farms, but the above named are the chief causes so many people have left the country.

On this subject The Madisonian says: "This paper carries an item from the Census Bureau that should be read with considerable thought and concern by every citizen of this county. We are told that we have lost several good citizens."

"No one who has any civic pride likes to see his home town or county lose in population. A good citizen is a patriotic citizen and a patriotic citizen is a citizen who has the growth of his community high on the list of things that demand his concern."

"We should not attempt to justify our loss by saying that it is to be expected because that is what has been happening in rural sections all over the nation. It is true that it has been happening, but that does not give us reason to become satisfied. Rural communities can be made as attractive and as prosperous as are the urban ones."

Violation of Week Days

(J. B. Parham in North Georgia Tribune)

The fourth commandment says in substance, six days shalt thou labor, and rest on Sunday. We have heard many people criticized for working on Sunday, some even prosecuted. Many people break the other six days by never hitting a tap of work.

JACK TARVER

Look Who's Talking About Aggression

Andrei Gromyko has called upon the United Nations Security Council to demand the "immediate withdrawal of American forces of aggression in Korea."

Who said the Russians have no sense of humor?

Accusing the United States of aggression in Korea is like blaming the Jews for persecuting Hitler.

The next thing we know the Russians will be giving us credit for hanging the iron curtain.

"American forces of aggression," indeed. Is it not enough that the Communies strain international relations, much less international credulity?

There's one thing we must admit about the Russians: They talk a good peace.

The only trouble is they don't put their munitions where their mouth is.

Incidentally, it was only the other day that Pravda revealed that Premier Stalin has become greatly interested in philology, the science of the meaning and connotation of words.

Apparently Joe is the Russian authority for the presumption that, whenever Communies meddle in the affairs of smaller countries, it's aid and assistance, whereas when we do it, it's intervention and imperialism.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Taft Attack Falls Short

WASHINGTON—President Truman's critics are hard put to find something to attack in his historic decision to intervene against the Communist invasion of South Korea. For the most part they have been forced to confine themselves to flyspecks.

Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, for example, sees nothing wrong in what the President did, but severely condemns his manner of doing it. He would have had Mr. Truman go before Congress and formally ask approval of a resolution directing him to do what was done.

The only difficulty about that was the time element. The Communists from North Korea were on the move, having already invaded South Korea in violation of all law and order and the common decencies among civilized peoples which the United Nations organization was set up to protect.

No Time If we had waited for Congress to pass a formal resolution on the subject, irreparable damage might have been done. In the first place, there would have been the temptation for some screwball to tie up proceedings for a week or more in a debate over whether the move was justified. Meantime, the Communies, judging from the way they have been going, would probably have overrun South Korea completely, presenting us with a fait accompli. It would have made our task far more difficult. It is difficult enough as it is.

Next, the tin horn critics like Senator McCarthy, of Wisconsin, and Senator Jenner, of Indiana, unable to find any fault with the President's action, have sought to center their fire on Secretary of State Acheson. Joining with Senator Taft, they are demanding his resignation on the ground that his Far Eastern policy has been repudiated by the President in what was done. Mr. Acheson had made certain statements previously outlining our position with respect to China and Formosa, which is the silly basis for the demands that he resign.

The ridiculousness of all of this, of course, is that the Secretary of State has no foreign policy. Whether or not any policy is of his making or inspiration, the responsibility for its execution lies exclusively with the President. If Mr. Truman reversed anyone, he reversed himself.

It is true that, prior to the Korean crisis, we were following a line of keeping out of the Chinese mess in so far as possible. After sinking more than two billion dollars in support of the corrupt Chinese Nationalist regime and seeing its forces disintegrate before the Communist uprising, we finally decided to wash our hands of the affair and leave Formosa, the last foothold of the Nationalists, to its own fate.

Then came the latest act of aggression in Korea, where we had set up a separate democratic nation after the defeat of Japan. That move on the part of the Communies was more than we could stomach. When we cast our lot on the side of world law and order, upholding the edict of the United Nations Security Council, we broadened the scope of our Far Eastern policy and laid down the line against any Communist threats to Formosa—an entirely logical course. If we were going part way, we might as well go the whole distance.

The critics see in this reversal for our Far Eastern policy. If any reversal is involved President Truman is the person who ordered it. It would make about as much sense for the critics to demand the resignation of the President, whose actions they applaud. So far as foreign policy is concerned, every President is his own Secretary of State. The State Department is merely the mouth piece of the White House in matters of the kind.

Monday Signal Callers But perhaps the greatest and most stupid piece of effrontery of all is the attack being made by some of the critics on our failure thus far to accept the offer of the Chinese Nationalist Government to send troops to South Korea to aid us in our efforts to drive the Communies out. Here the Monday morning quarterbacks are setting themselves up as Friday night military coaches.

Up to the present writing, neither the President nor General MacArthur has indicated any willingness to accept the Nationalist offer, though we have gladly accepted all other offers of the kind from United Nations countries. The reasons for this should be obvious to any school boy. If we allowed the Nationalist forces to come in that would be an invitation for the Communies of China to intervene on behalf of North Korea, something we hope very much to avoid. Thereby would be the makings of another Spain. Our aim is to localize the situation as much as possible.

The critics are finding it hard to make a case for themselves. Even the points raised by Senator Taft were so labored that most metropolitan newspapers, regardless of political affiliation, did not see sufficient news merit in his attack to warrant a front page story.

'Shootin'est' Army

The Editors: In your editorial of July 3 you expressed the belief that the main lack of the South Korean fighting man is the will to fight. I do not share your conclusion, and I frankly cannot help wondering how you arrived at it, being so remote from the scene of action and from any opportunity to observe the men of whom you speak. One reason I am writing this letter is that having been born in Korea and having lived there until 1940, in cities and towns both north and south of the 38th parallel, I feel I have at least a fair acquaintance with the people.

The 35-year Japanese domination of Korea, which ended on V-J Day, was hard beyond the average American's faintest knowledge. Then, reports to them from refugees fresh from the Communist-run northern half of the country have, during the last five years, kept the southerners well aware of what it will mean to them if their own part of the once-homogeneous nation cannot stand off Communist control. I think, sir, the will to fight is there, however true it may be that faith in their government has not run very high. Where would the situation really be much better, when a nation must learn self-government after three and a half decades of severe oppression?

Something prompted a high-ranking officer in the U. S. military advisory mission in South Korea to say (and he was quoted in American papers last week), that the South Korean army was the "shootin'est army outside the United States." Might it not be that the real trouble in the Korean war right now is not in the South Korean's will to fight, but in our not giving our aid when President Syngman Rhee wanted it—months ago?

Minority Rule

The Editors: The State primary election held in Butts County voted just two-thirds of the registered qualified voters. That left only 'round 36 per cent of qualified voters saying who shall be State officers in Butts County. Is that democracy? What we need is a two-party State.

Taxes and Voting

The Editors: I would like to write a few lines in regard to Mr. Cooper Smith's letter in the July 3 Constitution about the county-unit system of voting. I wonder if he has read the papers lately where Herman Talmadge got the majority of the popular votes, too? I'm glad that he did, as there would have been more bellyaching about the unit system for the next four years.

In respect to the backwoods farmer that he referred to, I have an idea that he pays about as much taxes as 125 ordinary citizens of the six-unit-vote counties. If he does, I think his vote should count as much as theirs. If a person doesn't pay taxes, he shouldn't be allowed to vote. They should at least have to help support the Government if they are going to help elect it. If there were but a dozen citizens in a county, they would have to pay the taxes on all the land in that county, so why not give

JOHN MARVIN RAST

"Wherefore, I put thee in remembrance that thou stir up the gift of God, which is in thee. . . ." (2 Timothy 1:6.)

A world traveler sending a story to his home paper tells of visiting a South American city that boasts that it has more churches than any other city on the continent. It has also, he adds, more lottery agents.

More new automobiles flash by on its streets and more beggars shuffle along on its sidewalks. Some of its residential areas are among the world's most elegant and in some sections buzzards swarm over its hovels.

We do not have to travel to lands afar to find places with such contrasting conditions.

As citizens of the Heavenly Kingdom we dare not gloss over the unseemly. The inescapable obligation is ours to bring it into focus—and into subjection to all that is true, just, pure, lovely and of good report.

Help us, Father, to behold our communities as Thou dost—magnifying the good, not blind to the evil. And like Thee, may we strive for the building up of enduring values.

Northern Defeat

The Editors: The recent gubernatorial election in Georgia was clearly and decidedly a victory for the South over the North. I dare say there were not more than two people beyond the Mason and Dixon Line who wanted to see Talmadge reelected, and that was my son and his wife who live in Alliquippa, Pa. They visited me recently and they tell me a Negro is more highly respected up there than a white person from the South. Also that there is as much prejudice in the North as there ever was, even in Reconstruction Days.

Crossing Ordinance

The Editors: I am writing concerning officers violating a Georgia law and endangering the lives of citizens. The law I am referring to is holding automobiles on railroad crossings.

On June 29, 1950, at approximately 4:30 p. m., my mother-in-law, Mrs. Paul G. Koppe, and my wife, approached McCall's Crossing from the east. Lee Street having the green light, they stopped on the east side of the railroad to await the light's change. An officer stationed there blew his whistle and made them pull onto the railroad crossing to await the light change. If a train had come they could not have advanced due to cars in front of them and could not have moved backward due to cars behind them.

I have checked with the State of Georgia and find this is contrary to state law. I called "information" at the police station and was advised by the lady on duty at 12:30 p. m. this date that Atlanta has a contrary city ordinance. (Contrary to the state law.) Incidentally, this lady on duty at the police station was very rude and hateful.

I am sending a copy of this letter to the Atlanta City Council suggesting an ordinance be passed correcting this ordinance now in effect before the City of Atlanta is sued by the family of the persons killed as a result of this ordinance.

A Sobering Surprise in Korea

WASHINGTON—Early reverses in the Korean War, though they might have been expected from the sudden blitzkrieg invasion by North Korean Communists, have, nevertheless, come as a sobering surprise to our people who knew little of the situation in that far-off outpost. What has happened obviously was a surprise even to some American officials in a position to know the situation intimately—for example, William C. Foster, ECA Deputy Administrator. As recently as June 13, in testimony on the $100,000,000 aid for Korea in the ECA bill now made public, he expressed his judgment that "the trend of events in South Korea is more favorable than it has been at any time since the liberation of that country in 1945." He said that "the reasons for optimism are military, political and economic," and added that "the South Korean army—a well-disciplined army of 100,000 soldiers—is prepared to meet any challenge by North Korean forces."

Somehow, we, as a people, never expect reverses, despite our experience in the early stages of the Pacific war against Japan, but look for an immediate turn of the tide once we step in and, when that does not happen, begin to look for scapegoats while tightening our belts for the longer haul.

It is natural to look for scapegoats, and it is necessary to locate mistakes and miscalculations so our course can be properly set. But this is to be a long haul. It won't be quick. It won't be easy. The American people might as well be told frankly by those in authority, intimations that this is to be done in the July 4 speech here of John Foster Dulles, consultant to Secretary of State Acheson, who returned a few days ago from Korea. He warned that the task we are undertaking "is not a light one, and before it is finished we shall, all of us, have to pay a price," some with their lives and the rest of us perhaps in sacrifices of an economic nature—a cut in our "economic indulgences," as he put it.

This diagnosis is expected to be elaborated upon in the near future by President Truman, probably in a message to Congress, in which the Korean assignment, undertaken in co-operation with the United Nations and its needs, will be explained in more detail. Much more of a military force will be required for the mission than has thus far been publicly announced and, because of our commitments in other parts of the world, it likely will be necessary to draw from reserves, and through increased enlistments, maybe also the draft, from our manpower here at home, both for the Army and Navy.

FRED OTHMAN

A House That RFC Jack Built

WASHINGTON—I hope Druggist Thomas W. Cooper enjoys his fine, new house in Georgetown, Texas. I helped finance it. So did you. The manse of Pillmiller Cooper is a small thing for us to be worrying about, maybe; yet the Reconstruction Finance Corporation took it so seriously that it slipped him a loan of $27,000 to settle the debts that he left unpaid on account of the home with the tile bath and the ultramodern kitchen. Now the U. S. Senate's considering the house of this Texas purveyor of headache powders as a perfect example of the way our money oughtn't to be spent. The repentant RFC agrees and even Cooper is not so hot as a businessman, Haw.

I hate to disagree with the world's mightiest banking corporation, but I should say that this obscure Texan bested the financiers at their own game. If it hadn't been my money that he got, I'd be inclined to applaud him.

On Georgetown's main street he and five helpers brewed the sodas, filled the prescriptions and peddled the hardware in the village's biggest drugstore. It was a busy place. The only trouble was that Tom was building this house and it cost a good deal more than he expected. So he took from his till about $15,000 to pay the building contractors and, blowie!

He had no money to pay his bills for drugs, comic books and marshmallow whip. He owed $25,853 and he couldn't pay it. He was on the verge of bankruptcy. So he applied to the Dallas RFC office for a loan.

His fellow Texans turned him down on the ground that if he hadn't spent more on the house than he took in from the drugstore, he wouldn't need a loan. So Tom appealed to his Congressman, who got in touch with the RFC's general counsel, James Dougherty. And it wasn't long before Tom had his loan of $27,000 at four percent interest for five years.

His house was paid for. So were his bills.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Entitled to a Day in Court

NEW YORK—The House Committee on Lobbying Activities unerringly went right after organizations opposed to Communist treachery, union atrocity, world-government abdicating American sovereignty and the Truman version of the British Marxian program. The Committee avoided other private propaganda groups which propagate their own version of the American way. One of them, a flagrant case, operates a detective agency and keeps "dossiers" after the manner of European secret police. As to whether Joseph P. Kamp, Dr. Edwin Rumely and Mervin K. Hart, the principal subjects of this organized smear, showed disrespect for Congress I have no conviction at the moment. Mr. Hart seems to have cleared himself by acceding to the Committee's demands for certain information as an afterthought.

To argue that Kamp should have a day in court to determine whether his activities come within the scope of the lobbying act is not to endorse his propaganda. The little of it that I have scanned did not express my views and was badly written, too. It was typical in that respect of thousands of columns of abusive, vulgar clamor put out by the unions.

I have observed that even though such citizens received a promise from a committee of Congress that their confidential data would be kept confidential, nevertheless it quickly leaked into pro-administration newspapers.

More flagrant, Rep. Buchanan, of Pennsylvania, the Chairman, published in the Congressional Record several of these newspaper accounts giving this information. Buchanan also loaded the Record with abuse of these men and all who supported them. They were fighting everything that "could in any manner be termed progressive," as though that would be a crime even if true. Rep. Wright Patman, of Texas, got space to say that "Fascism is a real threat to this country" and to call Rumely's group the spearhead of Fascism because, we read a little further on, his group would limit the income tax to 25 percent. I agree with that proposal, but no American journalist criticized Fascism and Nazism more vehemently nor in finer particular than I.

Throughout the debates as far as I have been able to plod through them with their long "insertions" of flagrant Hitlerian journalism from Administration papers, I have seen no recognition of the fact that the unions, all of them politically devoted to the Truman side, ever engage in "propaganda."

Yet the total speculative income and expenditures attributed to the groups which were singled out for spectacular treatment, is trivial by comparison with that of the AFL and CIO and their subordinates.

Additional appropriations may also be necessary. The financial situation was hinted at by Secretary of Treasury John W. Snyder when, appearing on the tax bill that has passed the House, and now is before the Senate Finance Committee, he withheld final judgment on the reductions contemplated because of the Korean emergency. It may not be the time to cut taxes.

An indication of some of the thinking in Congress on economic aid to Korea—before the Communist attack—came when Mr. Foster and his aides testified before the Senate Appropriations Committee in mid-June. They were grilled at length about why our government should extend aid to the Korean Government for properties and functions now nationalized by the South Korean republic under its Constitution, of which 56 were listed. Sen. Ferguson, Republican, Michigan, who was for the aid, nevertheless protested that "we are aiding nationalization all over the world instead of private enterprise," while Sen. Robertson, Democrat, Virginia, asked "if we are pouring money down a rat hole in Korea and stimulating socialism in some other alien form of government, or are we stemming the tide of Communism in Korea, and is it worth it?"

The reply was that there is little private capital in Korea for investment, or outside capital willing to risk investment, and that it is wisest for our government to deal with the government there rather than take a chance with local private interests that might not be responsible.

Korea is not a simple problem. But the solution for the immediate dilemma caused by the Communist attack has been simplified. The immediate job is a military one, and everything must be concentrated on that.

And Tom had $1,147 left over. So Sen. J. William Fulbright, Democrat, Arkansas, Chairman of the special subcommittee investigating the RFC, called in Chairman Harley Hise and most of his top helpers and gave 'em a dressing down. "If he'd kept the house money in the business, he wouldn't have needed this loan," said the Senator.

"This is an unusual case," insisted Chauncey Y. Dodds, the loan manager.

"What you did was make a loan to build him a house," Sen. Fulbright said. "And you just can't wet-nurse everybody."

"Yes, sir," said Chairman Hise. "And my constituents want to know why you make these loans," Sen. F. continued. "Some of 'em want to know why they can't get these handouts, too."

"It is extending the welfare state too far," Sen. Fulbright added.

Again Chairman Hise said, "Yes, sir." He also believed the loan never should have been made.

The Senator said he was delighted to hear the Chairman admit the RFC had made a mistake. And, as I say, I hope the druggist lives happily in his new house. The only thing is I think he owes me a chocolate ice-cream sundae, with nuts.

They All Play the Game By the Same Book

Billy Rose is on vacation

Concerning that testimonial dinner to Connie Mack, Billy Evans told a story about the 88-year-old genius of the Philadelphia Athletics.

I remember Billy when he broke into the League as an umpire in 1906.

He had the pink cheeks and the wide blue eyes of a startled and innocent child, having gone to Cornell. He was 22 and looked 17.

Injury A twisted knee stopped Billy's baseball and football career and he got a small-town job somewhere in Ohio as a sports writer. To get enough to eat he also umpired games in the Ohio-Pennsylvania League and from this position President Ban Johnson of the American League grabbed him and threw him into the American League. It was a period in our baseball history when men like Tim Lincecum and Silk O'Loughlin, men with hearts of oak, trembled with fear at the players and fans who were in those days a strange breed of homicidal maniacs.

Unless you have sufficient imagination to speak of Cleveland and Pittsburgh as metropolitan areas, Billy had never seen a big city in his life. "Three-Fingered Brown" could count on his one hand the number of major league games Billy had seen. And here he was assigned to umpire a game at Philadelphia between the Athletics and the Boston Red Sox.

In those days they only had four umpires in the league and if one of them took sick—or Jack Sheridan drank too much bourbon—there were three. And Billy Evans walked out to the first major league diamond on the grass of which he had ever trod.

He put on his spiked shoes and his cap, the only requirements then needed for an umpire and looked over the field wondering to whom he was to report and what to do.

Connie Came Then a tall thin, black-haired, kindly faced man came out of the Philadelphia dugout and walked over to the frightened boy.

"Are you Billy Evans?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I'm Connie Mack and I'm glad to see you here. Is there anything I can do for you, Billy?"

"I told Mr. Mack I didn't know what he could do. 'Frankly,' I said, 'I'm scared to death. I expected Silk O'Loughlin to be here to break me in.'"

"Billy," he said, "call me Connie. We'll be friends. Any time I can help you, call on me. Now as for the immediate job today, let me tell you something."

"What you have got to do today is no different than what you have been doing in the Ohio-Pennsylvania League."

"The bases are exactly the same distance apart, the ball weighs exactly the same number of ounces, the bats are just as round and cannot be any heavier. The rules are exactly the same. There is just one book. You know it by heart. That is the law of baseball."

"Remember always, Billy, that no matter who they are, they are just the same in the little league as they are in the big league—or on the sandlots. If you stick to umpiring, you will find that they are all the same and that is the way you will find life. That is America with everybody having the same chance. There are no big men and no little men in any walk of life; they are all just human beings."

"Never be afraid of any of them or stand in awe of them."

"And so for 40 years I followed Connie Mack's advice and was unafraid."

The Signs Were Not Right

CUMBERLAND ISLAND—It is late in the afternoon and the ice box is warming up and is all out of ice, so instead of doing like I'm supposed to do and tell the man that the ice is out so he'll go down to the ice house and get some ice, I think I'll relieve him of this particular job so I jump in the car and go down to the "estate" part of the Island where the caretakers stay and I honk the horn and the wrong boy comes out and I ask the wrong boy for the right boy and when I get the right boy I ask for the keys to the ice house and he asks don't you want me to get the ice for you and I say no I'll get the ice you go ahead and do whatever you're doing.

Wham, Wham! So I back around to get the back of my car near the door of the ice house and I hear a wham-bam and I stop and I have knocked over the hydrant and there's a steady flow of water coming out of the pipe and I realize I've broken off the pipe to the artesian water which supplies the main part of the Island and I get the ice and go around and tell the right boy that I've knocked over the hydrant and he goes out and looks at it and says it will have to be plugged for the moment and then fixed tomorrow and I take the ice to our house and get Madame Secretary to hold the door open and the ice slips out of my hand and it hits the ground and bounces and hits her on the shin and she asks me if that's the best I can do and I finally get the ice in the box and go down to the broken hydrant the following morning and the whole crew is sitting around an enormous hole in the ground and there are pipes going off in four different directions and the hydrant I have knocked over is connected with all of them and I have indeed played you-know-what and there is the head man making out a list of the parts he will need to fix the outfit and I volunteer to go over on the boat to Fernandina to get the parts and I spend the hot morning and $15.16 in the hardware store asking for couplings and nipples and finally locate all but one of them.

No Mood for Lunch I borrow that one from the pulp mill store room and come on back on the boat and then I sit down for a moment and tell Madame Secretary that I am not in the mood for any lunch right then and that I will sit down and read a little Chinese philosophy and get my nerves all settled down after a hard morning's running around and I'm sitting there reading how the Chinese like to smack their lips over a bowl of soup and am fast getting in the mood to do the same when Willie sticks his head in the door and asks me if there's a letter for him from his wife Eleanor and I jump up to get Willie's letter out of the mail bag that I brought over from the mainland and when I jump up I knock over the big reading lamp with the bright white china reflecting bowl and smash it into a thousand pieces and I think I'll just lie down now for the rest of the day and keep out of everyone's way because the signs ain't right.

KNOW YOUR GEORGIA

by C. J. Holleran

When Abraham Baldwin arrived in Savannah in 1784, he had a revolutionary idea in mind. It was the creation of a school system to be built and supported by a tax on all property. The public school system that he visualized was to be headed by a great University. Chartered January 27, 1785, the University of Georgia came into being. No progress was made, however, until fifteen years later, due to the extremely bad financial condition of the people and the state. On November 23, 1800, the school was formally organized and construction started. Called Franklin College, it was opened to students in 1801. The dream of Abraham Baldwin became a reality, and the nation had its first State University established.

Film Exhibitor Bites a Critic

Motion picture exhibitors must have been wanting to do it for years, but it remained for an Atlantan, Robert B. Wilby, to lash out publicly at a critic he thought unfair. Mr. Wilby, president of a chain of major theaters, was irked by "Time Magazine's" review of "Cheaper by the Dozen." To point up what he felt to be a flagrant difference of opinion between Time's reviewer and the audience, Mr. Wilby ran a trailer after each showing of the picture. The trailer said: "Ladies and Gentlemen: You have just seen and enjoyed 'Cheaper by the Dozen.' Here is what the Time Magazine movie critic had to say about it: 'A plotless string of mild rambling anecdotes with Clifton (Belvedere) Webb miscast in the central role. It is not much more fun than leaning through somebody else's family album.'"

"We bring this to your attention in order to prove that you cannot rely on the taste and judgment of smart-alecky critics who try to choose your motion picture entertainment."

Variety, the showman's bible, took notice of the Atlanta theater man's action this week. "W-K's (Wilby-Kinney's) dramatic move may spark into action the long-time latent antipathy of exhibitors to critics who let esthetic considerations supersede their function as a guide to entertaining films."

Mr. Wilby, however, was quoted as saying he planned no individual continuing feud with the critics.

A DUNWOODY GRANDMOTHER was regaling her family and friends the other night with delicately wrought Tales of the Depression. Her daughter said, "Mother, you remember we had no cook then and..."

"I'll say we had no cook," the grandmother interrupted drily. "We had no cook. We had nothing to cook. In fact, we begged from beggars."

The way she told it was this: One hot afternoon in the early 30's she was sitting on her front steps brooding when a beggar came by. He was an aging, distinctly seen-better-days type and when he started his pitch beginning, "Lady, could you let me have..." she waved him wearily to the steps.

"Have a seat," she said. "You might as well rest while you talk."

She heard him out. And when his tale of woe dragged to an end she told him hers. She told him of lost fortunes, of illness and mortgages and debts and joblessness and he concluded by emptying her purse before his eyes.

"I have half a loaf of bread and this car token," she told him. "You can have either or both."

He thanked her politely and declined. He said he didn't usually "knock off" begging so early in the day so he wouldn't take the token. Walking was really better for business anyhow.

He wandered off down the street and a few minutes later the delivery boy from the corner grocery wheeled up with a pound of butter. An unidentified man had bought it and sent it with this note:

"To go with your half a loaf. God bless you."

DOUBTS AND VEXATIONS which pester candidates and their families in the heat of a political campaign aren't necessarily over. A friend reports that Linda and Brother Lowe, children of Sam Lowe Jr., who nosed Judge Robert Carpenter off the Civil Court bench, spent most of the hectic days of the campaign with their grandmother.

The idea was to shelter the little lambs from the harsh political winds. When the returns were in and the counting was over, Mrs. S. F. Lowe Sr., trying to be matter-of-fact, remarked, "Well, children, your daddy is a judge." Linda, our informant reports, looked wise and pleased but Brother, who is three, was dismayed. "Will he still be my daddy?" he wanted to know.

The Passing of the Front Porch

In the Rockmart Journal

Just on the surface it may seem facetious to say so, but I firmly believe one of the tragedies of the age to be the passing of the front porch from the architecture of the American home. With its gradual extinction, we are losing, I fear, some of the treasured values of family life.

People today need a front porch on their homes, and I don't mean one of those stoop-like affairs which you're liable to fall off of if you make an awkward turn when you go out to get the morning milk. We need a roomy porch, one which would allow for some lounging around and good old rocking chair rocking. People live too fast now. They should pause long enough occasionally to throw their feet up on the banisters and do a bit of introspective philosophizing.

The passing of the front porch, like the fireplace which I have already mentioned in a column, is an effect of this civilized age in which we live and not so much a cause. Simply to change our architecture, so as to put front porches back on houses would not bring back the so-called "good old days" when life was leisurely lived and families were tied together by intimate relationships. But it would help matters considerably.

Some of the most profound thinking I've ever done was accomplished to the rhythmic squeak of rockers, as I kept a chair moving and my thoughts wandering, on the front porch back home. I practically read an entire set of Harvard Classics in such a position, and even today I find it a little difficult to do much effective reading unless I'm swaying to and fro.

Too, I might add, some of the fondest memories of childhood I associate with the front porch back home. There were three of us boys coming up together and we spent many an hour on the porch. The first porch we had was highly ornamental, boasting of frilly lattice-work around the top and banisters from which we kept our mother in a state of fear by hanging at precarious angles most of the time. We had our fun swinging, too, and I simply can't feature how a boy or girl has ever succeeded in reaching adulthood without having the experience of a squeaking swing fall with a resounding crash.

I remember an incident that happened once when I was a mere lad of about seven. I was playing on the back porch—our house for a long time had both front and back porches—when a kitten, about half grown, scampered up within reach. I had been told that you couldn't drop a cat on its back, so I proceeded to test the adage. I held the struggling, clawing and meowing animal carefully by its feet over the banisters and let go.

A strange thing happened, and I can hear that dull thud today. The cat failed to turn over. Its back struck a brick, and with a few gasping breaths, the animal died. I was dumbfounded, and my faith in those uncompromising sayings of the ages was severely shaken.

There were happier moments spent on the back porch. We used to freeze ice cream out there, and many were the times we three boys argued over who was to lick the paddles on the freezer. Since the "churn," as we frequently called it, was only a 2-quarter, this extra cream was ardently cherished, in spite of its meager amount.

We used to lie on the old couch with its dusty smell, its cats and cat hair and read the funnies when weather permitted. There were no screens to keep the flies out, but we were then unschooled in germs and they didn't bother us too much.

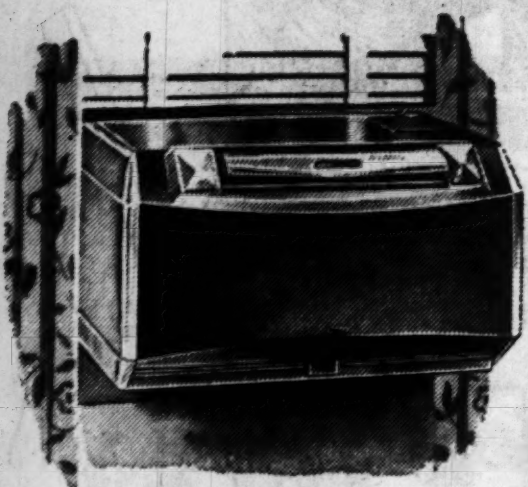

The front porch, during sunny Summer months, became the gathering place for the family, and especially on Sunday afternoons. Before that first Model-T intruded and put us on the road those Sundays, we had many a session there, the older ones swapping gossip and the "littluns" raising a tremendous racket with ear-splitting whoops and yells.

All of this, though it may sound aged, actually happened only a little over 20 years ago. The world has changed a lot since then. But every time I see one of these new type homes with no porch or maybe just a stoop on the front I think of the significance of this trend.

Somehow I feel that such a structure more nearly represents a house than a home.

But maybe I'm just partial when it comes to front porches. I still want mine, rocking chair and all.

Dutch Seeking U. S. 'Know-How'

By DORIS LOCKERMAN
Constitution Associate Editor

The Dutch who retreated from Indonesia at strong American insistence that the island be given its freedom following the war now look with fearful prediction upon the conflict in Korea, and beyond that, to the early statehood of the Philippines.

"They watch the rise of the Huk and the lawless people there," says Jan Hoppe, who has just returned from a visit to his homeland in The Netherlands, "and they say we have been too idealistic and may have to pay for it."

The Indonesian stand of the United States left no malice in the hearts of the plucky Dutch, who are toiling toughly to rebuild their land from the last war, and to make their improvements as Americanized as possible.

"They want to imitate America in every way," Mr. Hoppe says, "and on every street corner one hears English being spoken almost as fluently as Dutch."

Mr. Hoppe, former President of the Atlanta Retail Grocers Association, has been known here for years for his concern for his countrymen during the time when the brine had slushed from the floodgates of the Zuyder Zee to ruin their fertile lands, and they were trying to stave off the real starvation that followed occupation.

"Now they do not need my boxes," he admits. "I found well-stocked shelves in every grocery."

The Dutch do need American 'know-how,' Mr. Hoppe believes. "I went into a so-called 'self-help' store where a friend had spent much money, and found he had done everything backwards. The stock began somewhere in the middle of the store, and the vegetables were placed so that if a housewife happened to select one, all the rest would tumble down on the floor."

"And of course so many old countries, including Holland, still have that ridiculous law that requires every type of foodstuff to be licensed and sold separately. A green grocer cannot sell bakery goods; a butcher cannot sell poultry; a fish dealer cannot sell anything but fish. This means many storekeepers have almost no business at all except on about one day a week, and would be much better off out of their trade completely."

There is much of Georgia in Holland. Mr. Hoppe was surprised to find pictures of Atlanta people on the mantle of a woman who lived in Nijmegen, who had visited here.

A hotel has been renamed for Atlanta. The Dutch love Queen Juliana, feel closer to her than they did her dignified mother, Wilhelmina, because of her democratic leanings.

Mr. Hoppe says the story has gone the rounds in Holland about the oldest Princess who mischievously snatched a couple of apples from a cart on her way home from public school, and was taken off to jail for it. Prince Bernhard and her mother simply let her stay in the lockup several hours, to teach her a lesson.

OPERATION SANDY

A Graceful Transition To Young Womanhood

By ANN LAWRENCE

Climax to "Experiment: Sandy" was our appearance on a television program (Sandy's first!) on which we discussed the various changes in hair-styling, make-up, and clothes we had worked out with Sandy.

Miss Bowen, Mr. Payne Wed

AMERICUS, Ga., July 6—The Rehoboth Baptist church formed the setting for the recent marriage of Miss Pauline Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Urban Bowen, to William Adolphus Payne, of Dawson. The Rev. Jesse S. Bell, of Louisville, Ky., officiated.

The ushers were Harold Allen, of Shellman and Charles Bowen.

Mrs. J. H. Alexander, of Dawson, was matron of honor for her sister. The flower girls were Kathy Alexander, of Dawson and Peggy Anne Bowen, of Dalton.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Albert Jones, of Dawson, was best man.

The bride wore white organza, with a veil of illusion attached to a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible, topped with a white orchid and stephanotis.

A reception was given at the country home of the bride's parents.

Baker-Hale Wedding Told

MARIETTA, Ga., July 6—Miss Daphne Irene Baker became the bride of Holly O. Hale, recently at the First Baptist church here, with the Rev. George Brown officiating.

Ushers were Robert Baker, Bill Chapman, Lum Edwards and George Bookman.

Miss Mary McLenore was maid of honor, and Miss Martha McLenore and Mary Jane Camp lighted the candles.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, W. M. Johnson, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and white satin, with a veil falling from an orange blossom coronet. She carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of orchids and stephanotis.

Paul Hale was best man. Miss Ellen Ingram kept the bride's book in the church foyer where the couple greeted friends before leaving for a honeymoon in Florida.

When we first met her, she was terrified of facing the cameras. She was, in fact, nervous and shy about the whole experiment. But because she wanted to improve herself, which was more than half the battle, she was an eager, willing student.

On this page, you see Sandy as the television audience met her, a poised, attractive young woman of 18. Her manners and mannerisms now reflect self-confidence.

She is today making a graceful transition from girlhood to young womanhood. Like so many girls her age, her primary aim in life was to look older and more sophisticated. This she tried to manage with clothes mature beyond her years, which succeeded in bringing out her unattractive features and concealing her best ones.

She is still self-conscious about being underweight. But she has learned to hide her angularity with the proper dresses.

And now she admits that a youthful dress need not be a childish one.

She has learned to use make-up in a subtle way, so that her complexion faults are covered, her oval face emphasized, her naturally large eyes accented. And she has found that she can apply this makeup in such a natural way that it may be worn during the day or evening.

Sandy's own words when she saw her photographs sum up the experiment: "That's me!"

Youth's Wonderful ---During Middle Age

The consensus expressed in letters on the highly controversial subject of age, is that youth is a wonderful time—particularly in middle age. Since this is a holiday week, we'll report the lighter side first and leave the more serious note for later.

THE SPIRIT OF '76: "I think most women do mind telling their age. Take my grandmother, for example. Ever since I can remember, she has been touchy on the subject of age. Even now, when she is about 76 years old, if someone asks her age she becomes insulted."

NOBODY'S BUSINESS: "In my opinion there is altogether too much emphasis placed upon age and passing birthdays. Why we must tell our age (or less) every time we turn around is a mystery to me. After all, it's nobody's business. My husband and I have taken to giving a different age every time we are asked that question. It's being age-conscious that definitely makes anyone feel older. So let's forget the whole thing and enjoy the years as they come."

WHEN LOOKS BELIE AGE: "I for one am not ashamed of my age. I am 50 but no one ever takes me for that. Some women actually do feel younger than they are... but I don't think lying about age helps anyone look or feel younger. In my case, I can't believe I am 50, and I'm not bragging—I am proud of my age."

MAKING THE MOST OF THE YEARS: "I can't see why anyone should try to hide age. I am 82 and not ashamed to admit it. I feel I have had a busy life. You can't bring back the past, but I try to make every day just a little better than the day that has gone. I have brought up my daughter and my granddaughter. I do all the sewing for our family and still find time to take active part in all our church activities. Last fall I followed your diet tips and successfully lost 40 pounds. I feel fine and never think about how old I am. I believe it's only a waste of time. It's making the most of the years you have left that counts."

BETTER THAN EVER: "I'm past 60 and proud of it. But when people try to find out my age, I just laugh and say, 'Wouldn't you like to know?' My health has been better in the last 20 years than it was when I was younger. As for looks, my friends tell me I'm much better looking now. I hold a responsible position and find life very interesting. I don't pay any attention to birthdays."

Mrs. Sol Kamensky Achieves Chic With Last Years Clothes

By MAYNITA GERRY
Constitution Fashion Editor

Last month's news is new no longer. Last week's flowers have faded and died. Even last night's pudding has lost its shape. But last year's clothes are getting better all the time.

It is natural to expect a fashion director's wife to be known, to a certain extent, by the clothes she wears. At the moment, Mrs. Sol Kamensky is better known by the clothes she wore last year—and is still wearing.

To accomplish this, with Mrs. Kamensky's more than favorable results, two things are necessary: Long-range buying, coupled with the stamina to withstand any and everything that is either faddish or unnecessarily extreme.

Because clothes today are designed on a more or less universal scale and are therefore basically timeless, Mrs. Kamensky pointed out, choice is limited only to the restrictions you impose upon yourself.

"Obviously," she said, "each woman must 'edit' fashion to achieve her individual conception of style." Mrs. Kamensky's conception is strongly French in design, fabric and color preference.

She restricts herself to two basic designs: quite straight and quite full. For instance, a sleeveless beige linen street dress that is one unbroken line from shoulder to hem; and a navy organdy cocktail dress with full skirt and exaggerated pockets placed directly over each hip, are both typical of the two extremes in her wardrobe. She also wears boxy clothes well, in suits and coats, but these, of course, are variations of the straight theme.

For winter she wears heavy textured wools, tweeds, bulky fleeces and flannels. For summer, linens, organdies and crepes. The color range is limited to blacks, browns, grays, navy and beige, infinitely interchangeable with her latest and only concession to bright contrast: a short pyramid coat of orange red fleece. Gloves are either long or short, elbow or wrist-length. Hats are either large or small, such as tiny head-hugging cloches or huge elliptical brims attached to shallow crowns.

Mrs. Kamensky is physically adaptable to the use of three or more textures in one costume; satin, organdy and velvet, for instance. She is willow-slim with a straight fluid carriage which gives her the appearance of being taller than she is, and a tranquil quality that softens and balances bulky or crisp fabrics. Her hair, cropped as close to her head as a small boy's, is an interesting counter-balance to the Oriental slant of her eyes. To avoid the confusion (and expense) of complete seasonal change-overs, Mrs. Kamensky relies on separates to fill the gaps that occur at the tag-end of each season. Her "at home" clothes are usually concocted from the separates stock, brought together through color or a contrast of textures. Example: A natural hurlap skirt with a natural linen blouse, bronze low-heel shoes and belt made from an old coral and pearl necklace wound twice around her waist.

She wears many pearls for jewelry accessories or no pearls, meaning no jewelry. With a low neckline, she sometimes wears seven or eight strands in different lengths and sizes. With another, maybe one or two strands or none.

Mrs. Kamensky bases her refusal to comply immediately with his wishes on the theory that in order for a woman to appear well-dressed, she must first be comfortable in her clothes. And, further, in order to be comfortable in her clothes, she must conform to changes in fashion only when she has accustomed herself to them.

Of course, a husband with a flair for fashion is handy to have around... at times. About those other times, you might consult Mr. Kamensky on the hemline squabble that raged when he suggested that Mrs. Kamensky raise hers from its accustomed 12 to 14 inches. And about the time, before that, when he wondered, audibly, why she didn't cut her hair.

Mrs. Kamensky bases her re-

BUY LINES by Nancy Sasser

New York, July 6—Do you gamble when you make gravy... have only a 50-50 chance that it will turn out the way you like? Then I suggest you use KITCHEN BOUQUET... because this "fool-proof" gravy maker always rewards with extra-rich, extra-brown, extra-delicious gravy! Never adds any artificial flavor, either... for it's a delicate blend of fine herbs and spices which merely heightens the true, natural meat taste. That's why KITCHEN BOUQUET has been the favorite gravy-making secret of good cooks for over 70 years... and why you can depend on it for success-sure results every time you make gravy. P. S. Costs surprisingly little, too.

TAKE TIME OUT for a cooler... a tall, tinkling glass of ICED COFFEE... dark, frosty, fragrant! Ever try that in mid-morning or mid-afternoon? I do every day... for it's wonderful to stop work for a few minutes and relax over this spirit-lifting beverage. Every sip is a pleasure... and it's a delight to know that ICED COFFEE costs only a few pennies for a long glass. But, of course, this cooling pick-me-up must be made right to taste its delicious best... so let me send you a booklet with helpful tips from experts. It's called "Iced Coffee" and it's FREE... just write to Nancy Sasser, 271 Madison Ave., New York 16, N. Y.

I USED TO DREAM AND SCHEME... and search for ways to stop moisture damage in my home. My searchings ended when my FRIGIDAIRE Dealer gave me a demonstration of the revolutionary new FRIGIDAIRE Electric Dehumidifier. This amazingly simple device plugs into any convenient electric outlet and removes gallons of water from the air! No muss, fuss or messy chemicals, either. I use mine in my recreation room... but it's equally "at home" in my room where moisture's a problem. It's quiet and economical too... for it's powered by FRIGIDAIRE's famous Meter-Miser mechanism. Get a demonstration today... at your FRIGIDAIRE Dealer's!

A ROSY NOTE FOR MENU BLUES... this scrumptious Meat Loaf with the exciting Oriental touch of LACHOY Bean Sprouts!

Saute 1/2 cup onion, 1/4 cup green pepper, both chopped fine; add 1 can drained LACHOY Bean Sprouts; mix well. Mix together 2 beaten eggs, 1 cup milk, 2 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper, 1 tsp. thyme, 1 tsp. LACHOY Soy Sauce, 2 lbs. ground veal or beef, 1/2 lb. ground pork, 2 cups dry bread crumbs. Add to cooked vegetables; mix well. Shape into loaf, place in buttered pan. Bake in 375° F. pre-heated oven 1 1/2 hrs.

LACHOY Mixed Chinese Vegetables are also magic-mixers. For a complete meal that's ready to heat 'n' eat, get LACHOY Chinese Dinner.

PENNY-WISE PICKINGS for your pantry shelf... RATH BLACK HAWK Pork with Gravy! It's made just as you'd make it... the pork cut in thick, juicy pieces and cooked 'til it almost falls apart. But it's really better than home-made... because RATH uses their own choice corn-fed pork, extra-lean and trimmed of all bone and waste. Comes with just enough gravy to moisten it... so you get almost a pound of tender meat that's enough for 3 or 4 people. RATH BLACK HAWK Pork with Gravy costs less than most meat dishes, too... yet look at all the work you save! Try it today!

MEN ARE LIKE THAT... they all love coffee, but each man has his own very definite idea about the strength it should be to taste just right. But I'll wager you this... regardless of how strong your "Mr. Who" likes his coffee, he'll like it better if you "cream" it with CARNATION Evaporated Milk. That isn't just my opinion, either... millions of coffee lovers say they actually prefer CARNATION to cream in coffee. And it's easy to understand why:

CARNATION has the consistency of good thick cream... in fact, it's heavy enough to whip. Naturally, then, it gives coffee a luscious color... plus a rich, smooth, delightful flavor that appeals to even the fussiest coffee drinkers.

And that should make you very happy... for CARNATION costs less than half as much as cream! So keep your cream pitcher filled with this "milk that whips"... use it on cereals and desserts as well as for "creaming" coffee.

Something Special: Shrimps Jubilee

For those with a gourmet trained appetite we've found a very special dish, Shrimps Jubilee. Even though this dish has a special air about it, it is easy to prepare, ideal for Summer meals, and wonderfully fine flavored.

SHRIMPS JUBILEE
1/2 cup cooking oil
1 cup cooked shrimps
1 cup butter or margarine
Salt and pepper
1/2 cup white wine
4 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons parsley
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs

Add the garlic to the cooking oil. Let stand at room temperature several hours, then remove the garlic. Simmer the shrimps in the butter or margarine until heated through. Season to taste with salt and pepper and place in four individual casseroles. Add the garlic oil and wine to the butter or margarine in which the shrimps were simmered and pour this mixture over the shrimps. Sprinkle them with the cheese, parsley and bread crumbs, which have been combined. Place in a moderate oven (350 degrees or under low broiler heat) until the crumbs brown lightly. Four servings.

Miss Brooks Betrothed To Roy Z. Chamlee, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Dyck Brooks, of Charleston, Ill., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Martha Jo Brooks, to Roy Z. Chamlee, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Z. Chamlee Sr., of Atlanta.

The marriage of the popular young couple will be solemnized on Aug. 4 at the First Baptist Church of Charleston, with the Rev. Walter Thompson officiating. The ceremony will be a double service at which Miss Brooks' twin sister, Miss Mary Brooks, will become the bride of J. Lindly Steere, of Washington state.

The bride-elect, Miss Martha Jo Brooks, attended Eastern Illinois State College in Charleston, and is a graduate of Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Mr. Chamlee attended Yale University, and was graduated from Moody Bible Institute. He is now attending the University of Georgia.

Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Sloan, Sr., will return this week end from Rochester, Minn., where they have been visiting their son, Dr. W. F. Sloan, Jr., of the Mayo Clinic, and members of his family.

W. Nettles Ferguson, of Decatur, spent the week end in Rockmart with relatives, going especially to see his nephew, Donald Ferguson Minix, who is at home from the Naval Base at Oakland, Calif., for a few weeks.

Should a Baby Be Allowed to 'Cry It Out'?

By GLADYS BEVANS

The answers to the question "Why do babies cry?" are various—and vary in their accuracy. We actually know many reasons why babies cry, and some we have listed quite definitely in recent articles on the subject. But many causes of crying we do not actually know. We observe—we surmise—we try this remedy or that, and frequently do discover the reason for the fretting, or crying, or long-continued howling. These conjectures, too, we have been going over in a series of articles. However, I have left a few loose ends, and these I want to gather up today.

First: Remedies usually follow, logically, on the heels of discovery of causes, though not always. Some crying from teething or other unavoidable pain, or discomfort, a mother and her baby just have to live through—after everything has been checked, of course.

For instance, in early and continuous teething, discomfort can't be materially allayed. The right kind of soft-hard thing to bite on or a gentle massaging of the gums, perhaps, are local measures. Or your doctor may advise some kind of pain-alleviating medication or other device.

As to the baby who always cries resistingly over routine necessary things, like being changed and dressed and other restraints, try being playful and cheerful; and later, when he's older, make a game of as many of these physical routines as possible within reason, using any little rhymes and diverting his attention.

Nylon's Hair To Stay

By ANNE CAIN

Frankly, my dear (and I only say this because we are such friends), your hair is a mess. But, darling, what am I going to do? I simply can't do a thing with it!

Well, sweet, to be perfectly truthful, I'd simply shave my head and start over.

Oh, really now! Don't tell me you're still wearing human hair! Forgiveness sake.

What else is there? With dolls who count, that is. Oh, of course, there's mohair, for dolls who don't care if their hair looks like—like—well, like mohair, but as far as I'm concerned hair by any other name just doesn't look like hair.

Unless it's nylon.

Nylon?

That's what I said. How do you like my hair—do?

Don't tell me it's—

That's right. Nylon, every lustrous shining strand of it.

Well, sweet, I don't want to seem dubious, but is there any danger of its ending up looking like an old stocking?

Not a chance, my pet. I can get it washed, set, brushed as often as that woman who does my hair feels inclined to do it.

Oh, heavens. You mean you don't mind?

Why should I? My gleaming locks just thrive on it.

Oh, my! I wince at the sight of a washcloth.

Oh, yes. Of course.

Mary Elizabeth Britt Heads 1950 Georgia Girls' State

By MRS. L. M. DEWELL

Miss Mary Elizabeth Britt, of Thomaston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Britt, was elected and inaugurated 1950 Georgia Girls' State Governor at the State Capitol during the session of the Girls' State sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary at GMA. She succeeds Miss Jo Alice Moody, of Perry.

The week was spent in instruction by state officials, voting, campaigning, inauguration meetings in the Senate and House, recreation and a Girls' State tea. Mrs. William B. Oxford was tea chairman and banquet was arranged by Mrs. Charlie Morgan. Rep. James C. Davis, guest speaker, was introduced by Paul West.

Lieutenant governor for 1950 is Annette Wallace, of Rome, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Wallace. The National Girls' State committee of ALA pays the transportation and expenses of these two girls to Girls' Nation, to be held at Mt. Vernon Seminary and Junior college, in Washington, D. C., July 28-Aug. 3, 1950. Alternates selected for the governor and lieutenant governor are Betty McGraw, of Savannah, and Helen Langford, of 946 Rosedale rd., N. E., Atlanta.

Mayors elected for the 12 mythical cities were: Pat Arline, of Cairo; Harriet Smith, of Decatur; Barbara Bush, of Thomaston; Addie Lou Butts, of Brunswick; Betty Brown, of Madison; Frances Johnson, of Smart; Harriette Stripling, of Newnan; Grace Traylor, of College Park; Nancy Holsapple, of Athens; Della Anne Lewis, of Thomasville, and Margaret Rivers, of Macon. All of the county officers for the three mythical counties were elected.

Helen Knight, of Marietta, was elected secretary of state; Betty McGraw, of Savannah, attorney general; Emily Peters, of Macon, state treasurer; Doris Edwards, of Toccoa; comptroller general; Cheryl Williams, of Perry, state school superintendent; Joan Gaby, of Decatur, judge of Court of Appeals. Elected associate justices were Addie Lou Butts, of Brunswick, and Gloria Florence, of College Park.

Judge of Superior Court was Barbara Bales, of Buford; solicitor general, Virginia Sprayberry, of Newnan; representative to Congress, Betty Thomason, of Sandersville; commissioner of agriculture, Marie Perry, of Winder; commissioner of labor, Connie Broadway, of Milledgeville; state auditor, Hannah Jackson, of Cartersville; State Board of Health, Margaret Walters, of Hartwell; highway department director, Peggy English, of Blakely, and commissioner of public service, Nancy Bohannon, of Moreland.

The bridesmaids were: Misses Anne Jennings, Betty Buchanan, Elizabeth Perry and Mrs. Jack Shannon, of Montgomery. Misses Margaret and Ella Merritt were junior bridesmaids.

The maid of honor was Miss Bessie Bowen, of Biloxy, Miss, sister of the groom. The flower girls were June Merritt and Flora Tooke, of Columbus.

Usher-groomsman were: Frank Butler, Jr., Billy Horne, Milton Fletcher and Thomas Merritt.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Dr. Tom Owen Kennard, of Jacksonville, was best man.

The bride wore white organdy with a yoke outlined with Chantilly. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a coronet of Chantilly and she carried an orchid on a white Bible, showered with carnations.

After a wedding trip to Daytona, the young couple will reside in Tifton, where the groom is manager of Keenan's Auto Company.

Miss Flora Bryant Weds Sept. 9

The Rev. and Mrs. Virgil Leon Bryant, of East Point, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Flora Bryant, to Harry Agee Hackworth, of Knoxville, Tenn. The wedding will take place the evening of Sept. 9 at East Point Presbyterian Church, the ceremony to be performed by the bride-elect's father.

Miss Bryant received her B. A. degree from Agnes Scott College, and is now employed by Delta Air Lines. Her mother is the former Miss Ruth Hall, of Laurel, Miss.

Mr. Hackworth is presently employed by Baummann and Baummann, architects, in Knoxville. He is now a senior at Georgia Tech, where he will receive his degree in architecture. He is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. His mother is the former Miss Mary Lawrence Agee, of Knoxville.

After a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Atlanta.

Bad Heart's Effect In Pregnancy Cited

The victims of heart disease fall into four different classes. First is the class in which although heart disease is present, no limitation of activity is imposed upon the patient because of it. The second class involves those who suffer slight limitation of activity because of heart disease. The third class suffers moderate limitation of activity and the fourth class suffers marked limitation of activity because of heart disease.

Rheumatic fever in childhood is the cause of 90 per cent of heart disease which assumes importance in pregnancy. Perhaps 3 per cent of all pregnancies are complicated by heart disease.

Before the advent of modern obstetrics, infection and hemorrhage were the chief concern of the doctor at childbirth. Control of infection and hemorrhage has been largely mastered. In the light of the advance of obstetrical science, leaving heart disease as the chief concern today.

Even in the face of modern knowledge of heart disease, it is perhaps safe to say that about 20 per cent of mothers dying in childbirth or shortly afterward, do so because of heart disease. As a matter of fact, a good share of this 20 per cent—perhaps most of it—covers those who die in the sixth and seventh month of pregnancy.

I am frequently asked about the prospects of pregnancy and childbirth, by young women with heart disease who are contemplating marriage. It is very difficult to offer advice in specific cases, but in general I am inclined to the view that persons in class 3 and 4, previously mentioned, should be very carefully examined by a physician before marriage and should not marry, if so advised.

There are doubtless many persons who enter into marriage with the thought that contraceptive measures will control the matter of pregnancy. To these people I would say that I do not share their confidence in the matter. More than one person has found out that there is often a difference between what should happen and what does happen.

Over-all statistics in the matter are not available, but in one group of over 200 women with rheumatic heart disease, 17 per cent failed to survive two years after childbirth.

Expert care and management throughout pregnancy will often carry a mother through, where disaster might otherwise be expected. On the other hand, in different cases might result in disaster. In a case thought originally to be within safe limits. Again, I stress the importance of capable medical supervision of the entire subject—by the physician on the scene.

Many states now require an examination for venereal disease, before a marriage license is issued. Ideally, this examination should be complete—in order to ascertain the possibility of other conditions—heart disease among them—which would interfere with pregnancy and childbirth.

The responsibility of denying the possibility of motherhood to a young woman is certainly outside the province of the conductor of this column. A good plan to follow is to be sure your ticker is in shape for any eventualities—before the fair-haired boy comes along. Once he is on the scene, you may be strongly sure.

"No," say lots of lucky girls

Maybe you, too, can look back on those "clouded days" each month and revel in blessed relief from pain. For if you suffer from functional periodic cramps, discover—as so many other women have—the wonderful help Cardol may bring.

Cardol works internally to help minimize painful contractions of the uterus. It is able to intervene in a frequent cause of cramps. Maybe your suffering is needless, too. See what aid of this modern type can do for you. Ask for a bottle of Cardol.

Pink Gardenia Trees Used At Wedding

Something new has been added to weddings.

Pink tulle gardenia trees, if you please.

Guests who attended the McMath-Roy wedding in Americus last week are still gasping from the sheer beauty of the scene as the bride party approached the altar through a path outlined with the beautiful trees planted in small bluish-colored urns. Fragrant fresh gardenias were tinted pink and studded among the frothy tulle of which the trees were fashioned.

Trees of huckleberry foliage, also studded with gardenias, were used in the improvised altar in the living room of the Heys McMath home where lovely Anne McMath became the bride of Eugene H. Roy, Jr.

To carry out the color motif further, the bridesmaids wore white organdy frocks over pink tulle, and carried pink rubrum lilies.

A note of pink introduced into the bride's ensemble was the pink-throated white orchids she carried to complement her white satin gown which was trimmed in heirloom rose point lace from her mother's wedding gown.

Mrs. William E. Brumby and daughter, Gail, who was born June 29 at Emory Hospital, have returned to their home in Marietta. Mrs. Brumby is the former Miss Helen Milburn, of Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ewing have returned to their home in Nashville, Tenn., after having been guests for several days at the Atlanta Biltmore.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

It's All My Fault—I'm a Selfish Person

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I read your column every day and little did I think that I would ever be writing you. Nevertheless here is my problem and I am praying that you may be able to help me.

I am 33 years of age and have been married nearly 10 years to a most wonderful girl. She is a wonderful wife and mother. We have two children, ages 7 and 3; and we have always been happy until this past year. It is my fault. I guess I am rather selfish and I don't think I've grown up intellectually; at least, not on a par with my age. At any rate, my marriage is just about on the rocks.

Doctor Advises Much Hard Work

After this happens I feel as though I should disappear or end the thing; however, I am not that crazy yet. I went to a doctor the other day and had a long talk in which I told him everything, even about my writing a lot of checks on my father's bank account.

If you can see any way to help me, your comments will be greatly appreciated by both of us—my wife and myself. G. S.

Man's Plight Isn't Hopeless

DEAR G. S.: I gather the doctor was completely baffled by your account of yourself; and probably also he is a stickler for duty and decency, who has no patience with people who can't behave. So he more or less kicked you out of his presence with the gruff prescription to go to work and forget yourself.

He probably refrained from referring you to psychiatry because he felt you were looking for sympathy, or Santa Claus, and not for a road map out of your difficulties. And as some doctors do, he may take a dim view of psychiatry anyway, as a venturesome practice in which the blind are leading the blind for the most part.

You are in a panic state. You were already deeply discouraged and seriously demoralized (on the unconscious level) when you embarked on a wastrel course a year ago.

Driven by Latent Anger

In writing bad checks on your father's account, you aren't just mooching for easy money. You are having neurotic revenge on him about something. You are fighting an old score with him and defying society at the same time.

Possibly this happened as the resentment once exclusively aimed at parents began to take in your wife, also, when you realized that her standards of behavior were much like theirs. Maybe that's the traces of "being good" after 10 years' happy marriage. Follow these clues and you may find your true center, and from there grow up to be your age.—M. H.

More About Mars
To Thrill Listeners

By PAUL JONES

Brace yourself m'lads. One of the most terrifying experiences this Nation has ever known could very easily be repeated Friday night.

Remember the last invasion of this country by the rocketmen from Mars? Recall the graphic story of how men with jet-propelled fins descended on this sphere and sent thousands of people into the streets screaming: "We've collided with another planet!"

Orson Welles was responsible for that night of hysteria in 1940. Radio listeners were listening out of one ear, as radio listeners are wont to do. They caught snatches of the show, which was really a radio dramatization. And, without listening further, went into a spasm.

Newspaper offices and radio station switchboards were jammed with calls . . . every-where excited people were seen scurrying here and there . . . spreading the wild news of the invasion from Mars.

Yes, this could happen again unless listeners listen with BOTH ears when "Mars in Heaven," a super-duper thriller about life on another planet is presented at 9 on WSB-NBC. The astounding thriller will tell the story of how an adventure-seeking expedition visits the planet in 1987. It will have a terrifying ending.

So, listen with BOTH ears if you're tuned to WSB at 9.

Don Dunphy and Bill Corum are two names most familiar to sports fans. Together they have called the blow-by-blow of some of the top heavyweight championship fights, but, up until now, fans have known them by their voices alone. Starting Friday night, WSB-TV viewers will get a look-see at the sports reporters in a new series, Cavalcade of Sports, which will visit, through the video cameras, leading sports events of the season. The time is 10:15 p. m.

Popular Music

The music of Dick Jergens and his crew—the popular here's-that-band-a-gin aggregation—will be featured at 7 on WAGA-TV during the Cavalcade of Bands show. Al Galante will handle the rhythm vocal chores while Ray McIntosh will do the ballad harmonies.

Sutton Case Reviewed

The case of Willie "The Action Sutton" wanted for armed robbery and jailbreak, will be reviewed during the initial broadcast of a new WSB-NBC show, "Wanted," which debuts at 10.

The documentary show will be composed entirely of recorded recent interviews with witnesses and police officials. Among the voices to be heard will be those of U. S. Attorney Vincent Keogh, Warden Burke, of Eastern State Penitentiary, and a man who shared an apartment with Sutton for more than two years. Sutton, a disguise expert and escape artist, according to the story, has spent most of his 48 years evading the law.

Song Competition

Joan Edwards, song writer-singer; Jack Robbins, music publisher; Martin Block, disc jockey, and Johnny Johnston, singer, will form the panel of song judges on WAGA-CBS's "Songs for Sale" show at 9:30. Top song submitted by an amateur tunesmith will win $200. Rosemary Clooney and Tony Bennett, vocalists, will sing the competing tunes.

Tiny cream puff shells are delicious with a cheese filling. Use a tangy yellow cheese for the filling and spike with Worcestershire sauce and onion salt.

Food With a Flavor

SNOW PIE IS A JACK FROST DESSERT

GO IN FOR SNOW

January Desserts in July!

By AGNES REASOR OLMSTEAD
Constitution Home Economics Editor

January in July!

When you can't keep a good thermometer down that's the time to think about snow. And how about serving a big dish of snow for dessert tonight?

Snow pie, snowballs, snow flake pudding, toasted snow squares are the coolers we suggest for hot summer desserts. All can be simply made in the cool of the morning and stored away for easy serving at dinner time. Since these desserts keep well, we're giving large enough recipes for two meals.

Snow pie is one of those longed-for fool-proof refrigerator pies. Crushed pineapple adds luscious bits of color and flavor to the fluffy, creamy cottage cheese filling—and cinnamon adds delightful interest to the crust.

SNOW PIE

1½ tablespoons unflavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
1 cup sugar
1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup crushed pineapple
1½ cups pineapple juice
1½ cups milk
1½ cups cream
1½ cups evaporated milk, chilled by cold

Soak gelatin in cold water several minutes. Add boiling water and sugar and stir until dissolved. Cool. Put cottage cheese through a sieve. Add pineapple, lemon juice, nutmeg, salt, vanilla and cooled gelatin. Chill mixture until almost firm, but not completely set. Then whip the chilled milk until very stiff. Fold jelly mixture gently into whipped milk and pile in chilled cracker crust. Chill at least three hours before serving. One generous 8-inch pie.

GRAHAM CRACKER CRUST

(about 10 graham crackers)
1½ cups sugar
1 cup butter, melted

Mix crumbs and cinnamon. Add butter and blend thoroughly. Press firmly into an 8-inch pie pan. Let chill in refrigerator while preparing filling.

SNOWBALLS

1 cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
1 cup sugar
1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup crushed pineapple
1½ cups pineapple juice
1½ cups milk
1½ cups cream
1½ cups evaporated milk, chilled by cold

Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve in hot water. Add sugar; stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice. Chill until partially set. Beat until frothy. Fold in egg whites. Pour into oiled custard cups. Chill until firm; unmold. Serve with custard sauce. Garnish with whole or half strawberries. Eight servings. Custard sauce: Combine 3 beaten egg yolks, dash of salt, and ¼ cup sugar. Gradually stir in

Cold Meat

Cornucopias

One of the prettiest ways to serve cold cuts on a luncheon or supper platter is cornucopia style. Luncheon meat, boiled ham, bologna or any of the interesting prepared meat loaves are tops for this colorful dish. Many people favor meat cornucopias filled with cottage cheese to which some onion juice, chives, salt and pepper have been added. An example of a slightly different angle on cornucopia fillings is a creamy, chilled macaroni mixture which includes, in addition to macaroni, mayonnaise, diced celery, salt and pepper—and for that added zip, some caraway seed.

Other perky fillings are: Baked beans, potato salad and cole slaw. Fill cold cuts with these and fasten with colored toothpicks. A dab of bright green parsley tucked under the toothpicks gives a saucy touch. Examples of foods which go well with meat cornucopias are individual fruit, or vegetable gelatin molds, deviled eggs, tiny sweet pickles and potato chips.

SOME NEW IDEAS

For Variety at Mealtimes, Use Summer Vegetables

Summer vegetables are at their peak of flavor, freshness, and supply now. Fresh corn, snapbeans, beets, cabbage, tomatoes, carrots and beets are all on the plentiful list for July.

Vegetable counters will boost many others too and you'll want to use them for menu variety. The whole family will enjoy Summer vegetables if you'll serve them in new ways. How about corn fritters, crisp and brown, and made the short cut way with pancake mix.

The pancake ready-mix speeds up preparation because it eliminates several steps in measuring and sifting. A special blend of flours in the mix, gives a crisp and tender fritter that doesn't absorb excess fat in the frying. These fritters do not require tedious deep fat frying, but are simply fried on a well greased griddle or skillet.

GREEN CORN FRITTERS

1½ cups pancake ready-mix
2 cups cooked green corn, drained
Combine beaten egg and milk. Add to ready-mix, mixing until fairly smooth. Fold in corn. Fry on hot, well greased griddle, turning to brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot. Makes 12 fritters.

A beautiful vegetable—and delicious too. A piping hot food tastes good even on a warm day.

BROILED EGGPLANT

Steam thick slices of unpeeled eggplant until almost tender, about 10 minutes. Dip in seasoned flour and place on well greased broiler pan. Marinate thick slices of fresh tomato in garlic French dressing, and top eggplant with the tomato. Lay a slice of American cheese over each eggplant-tomato "sandwich." Broil until cheese is golden brown and serve at once.

Have roastin' ears, or cook the corn on the cob your own favorite way—steamed, boiled or by pressure. However you prepare it, try serving corn Western style.

CORN ON THE COB, WESTERN STYLE

String several cut cloves of garlic on tooth picks. Immerse in ½ cup (¼ pound) softened butter or margarine. Allow to stand several hours at room temperature. Remove the garlic and serve the seasoned butter on fresh corn on the cob.

PAN-STEAMED TURNIPS

Pare and shred 4 medium turnips on medium coarse shredder. Melt 2 tablespoons margarine or drippings in heavy pan or skillet that has tight-fitting lid. Add turnips, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper. Cover; cook over low heat about 15 minutes stirring occasionally. If necessary to add water, add just enough to keep vegetable steaming.

Alternate idea: Cook shredded celery root, carrots, cabbage or rutabaga in this manner, adding very small amount of water and increasing cooking time as necessary.

SHREDDED KALE AND BEETS

Wash ½ pound kale thoroughly; with knife or kitchen scissors cut out stems and leaves into fine shreds. Scrub 3 medium beets, scraping stem end; shred on medium coarse shreddder. Place vegetables in heavy kettle; add ½ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 1 cup water; simmer tightly covered 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. If necessary to add more water, add only enough to keep vegetables steaming. Add 2 tablespoons margarine or drippings; serve with vinegar or sections of lemon.

INDIAN SQUASH

Melt 2 tablespoons margarine or drippings in heavy saucepan. Add 3 cups diced squash (pared or not according to variety), ½ teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 1 teaspoon sugar and 3 in a 11 amount water. Simmer tightly covered until tender, stirring occasionally. If necessary to add more water, add just enough to keep vegetable steaming. Add 2 cups drained whole kernel corn and simmer until thoroughly heated.

Bread Crumbs Make a Betty A Betty

What makes a Betty a Betty? The bread crumbs, of course. They give the Betty that crisp, familiar taste—so heavenly good.

If you have fond memories of Apple Brown Betty like your mother used to make, then you can imagine how good other Bettys can be. For instance, a Peach Betty, a Plum Betty or an Apricot Betty. Ummm, sound good?

With peaches plentiful, now is a good time to try the peach kind. Then when other fruits are in season, you can use the recipe given here and merely change the fruit.

PEACH BETTY

2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 cup margarine or butter
4 cups sliced peaches
1 cup brown sugar
1½ cups cinnamon
1 cup water

Make bread crumbs by crumbling enriched yeast bread between fingers or cutting bread slices into cubes. Melt butter and toss with crumbs. Arrange one-third of the crumbs in a greased 1½ quart casserole or baking dish. Cover with half of the peaches. Mix together sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle half of the mixture over the peaches. Add remaining peaches and sugar mixture. Top with crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, 45 minutes. Six servings.

IT'S GREEN CORN FRITTER TIME

Jumbo corn fritters with pork sausage and snap beans make a good dinner.

Today's Specialty: Four excellent salad dressings.

Come summertime hot dishes exit and equally nourishing cold foods enter.

Platters of cold cuts, tremendous salad bowls of fruits, vegetables and greens, jellied soups, frozen desserts—these are the Summer stars.

Few foods have such seasonal importance as salad dressing and few are so abused. Some women use the same dressing on all kinds of salads. Others always use the same recipes Winter and Summer without realizing it is the dressing that lifts a salad out of a humdrum class into something really special.

Salads are our Summer mainstays at home. We have all kinds of salads from light non-filling green ones to the hearty meat ones. Salads always taste good at our house and there are never arguments about eating them because I make sure the salad dressings are perfect.

Years ago when I managed a big department store tearoom we served trays of salad and trays of dressing for guests to choose their own. Here are four of the most popular dressings.

Celery seed dressing is best suited for fresh fruit salads, hearts of lettuce, or mixed greens. Two or three tablespoons of it mixed with chicken, fish or meat before adding mayonnaise is a fine salad trick.

CELERY SEED DRESSING

1½ cups sugar
1½ cups celery seed
1½ cups dry mustard
1½ cups oil
1½ cups vinegar

Put ingredients into bowl in this order. Beat with rotary beater until thick. This makes a stable dressing, one which will not separate. Makes 1 pint.

Sour cream dressing is the old-fashioned dressing for thinly sliced, crisp cucumbers, shredded cabbage, or enormous circles of red ripe tomatoes.

SOUR CREAM DRESSING

1½ cups sour cream
1½ cups sugar
1½ cups oil
1½ cups vinegar

Use the commercially prepared sour cream, chill then whip it. In another bowl mix remaining ingredients then stir them into the cream gradually.

Makes about ¾ cup.

Cooked salad dressing is just about a lost art but if you will make this recipe just once you'll know why I think it is so special. Homemade dressing does wonders for potato salad, any other vegetable, fruit or meat salad. It's a standard all-purpose dressing.

OLD-FASHIONED COOKED SALAD DRESSING

1½ cups oil
1½ cups vinegar
1½ cups salt

Blend dry ingredients in top of double boiler. Add egg, then beat until smooth. Add milk and mix well. Add one tablespoon vinegar. Cook over boiling water. Add remaining vinegar slowly, stirring constantly. Cook until thick. Remove from heat, add butter. Pour into glass jar. Cover, cool, store in refrigerator. Makes 1½ cups.

WHIPPED CREAM DRESSING

1½ cups sugar
1½ cups oil
1½ cups vinegar

Whip cream very stiff. Carefully fold in the cooked salad dressing made from the above recipe. Do not let this stand too long before serving. Makes 1 cup.

For More Good Eating and Better Value, Buy "Super-Right" Meats

At A. & P. You Get Only Fine Quality Spring Lamb Weighed After Trimming You Don't Pay For Excess Bone and Fat.

When you buy leg of lamb does the butcher weigh it before he removes the excess fat and bone? If so you are paying full leg of lamb prices for the undesirable trimmings. That's no bargain! THAT NEVER HAPPENS AT YOUR A&P. We always "Super-Right" trim each leg to remove shank end bone, tail bone and excess fat (as illustrated above) BEFORE WEIGHING. That's why thousands of housewives come to A&P for spring lamb.

Lamb Chops are Good Value, Too

WILSON'S CORN KING BACON

A Sparkling Salad for Lunch: It's Shrimp and Cucumber Mold

Is there a woman alive who wouldn't like to serve a sparkling salad to her luncheon guests... one of those salads with the flavor of Spring and the coolness of morning dew? Such a salad is Shrimp and Cucumber Mold. The pink of the shrimp and the pale green of the cucumbers barely peek through the gelatin mixed with mayonnaise and gently flavored with cider vinegar to give it a "lift" and to add zest.

- SHRIMP AND CUCUMBER MOLD
- 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
 - 1 1/2 cups hot water
 - 1/2 cup cider vinegar
 - 1 No. 1 can shrimp, diced
 - 1 large cucumber, diced
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon paprika
 - 1/2 cup mayonnaise
 - 1 cup mixed green vegetables, diced
- Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add vinegar. Chill until slightly thickened. Mix together shrimp, cucumber, salt, paprika and mayonnaise and fold into gelatin. Turn into ring mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on to platter. Fill center with diced fresh vegetables. Garnish with pickle fans, radish roses and parsley, if desired. Six servings.

Bake a Big Batch Of Fudge Sweeties

Bake a batch of these fudge sweeties to accompany tall ice cream floats or glasses of iced tea or coffee for the mid-afternoon cooling off period. The crisp, cereal snacks are a cross between a cookie and a confectionery, keep well, and are quick to make.

- FUDGE SWEETIES
- 4 ounces semi-sweet chocolate
 - 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 - 2 eggs
 - 1/2 cup corn syrup
 - 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup ready-to-eat bran
 - 1/2 cup chopped nuts
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- Melt chocolate and butter over hot water. Beat eggs well, add corn syrup, and continue beating until light and fluffy. Add chocolate mixture. Stir in flour, salt, bran, nuts and flavoring. Pour into greased 8 by 8-inch pan, making a layer

SIMPLE TO MAKE

Keep-Cool Meat Dishes

When the temperature soars, the smart homemaker can keep that cool-as-a-cucumber look even at meal time. It's easy to do if she serves a hearty meat salad for dinner. Meat salads are simple to make, refreshing and nourishing, too. Here's an especially tempting combination using ever-popular leftover ham. Add a can of chopped, broiled mushrooms and some diced, cooked leftover vegetable such as peas or carrots to leftover cubed ham. Moisten with French dressing and toss lightly. Place in a refrigerator bowl, cover and thoroughly chill. Before serving, drain off any excess French dressing and add some shredded coconut and diced celery. Place mounds of the salad in crisp lettuce cups and serve with mayonnaise to which a dash of ginger has been added.

JUST ADD MILK—MIX—BAKE

Devil's Food Mix

If you tossed your bonnet in the air for Swans Down Instant Cake Mix, wait! You try this new Devil's Food Mix! Here's Swans Down perfection for you—plus the richest, fudgiest chocolate flavor a cake mix ever had! Swans Down uses a special Walter Baker blend of cocoa beans—and an exclusive formula that holds fragrance and flavor in spite of oven heat. Finer, tenderer texture, too... flour milled by Swans Down... fresh, all-vegetable shortening. Egg whites with delicate, spring-fresh flavor are right in the Mix. Just add milk, beat, and bake—for 2 high, 8-inch fudgy layers... feathery, soft, luscious!

Keep Swans Down Instant Cake Mix handy, too! "Finest cake mix made!" writes Mrs. Delbert Bostrom of Victoria, Ill. Use both mixes—enjoy glorious cakes more often!

As fine as Swans Down Instant Cake Mix—and that's tops!

Crispy Fried Liver Steaks

Crispy fried liver steaks will not only give your family a menu change, but also an extra special supply of iron and vitamins. Here's a wonderful way to cook liver the next time you serve it to your family. First remove skin and membranes, then dip slices in cracker crumbs or finely crushed corn flakes then in egg which has been beaten with a little lemon juice and water. Return slices to the cracker crumbs for a second jacket of crunchy coating.

In a skillet in a little hot fat brown the slices on both sides for about six minutes per side. Serve with catsup thinned with a small amount of water and heated.

To complete the meal, serve sweet potatoes glazed with honey, green beans, orange-slice salad and for dessert ginger bread, with or without ice cream.

DOCTORS

MINUTE MAID

FRESH-FROZEN ORANGE JUICE IS BETTER FOR YOUR HEALTH

—Than The Same Oranges Squeezed at Home!

THE YEAR AROUND—MINUTE MAID GIVES YOU
FAR MORE VITAMIN C
FOR HEALTHIER TEETH, BONES, MUSCLES, GLANDS,
BETTER GROWTH,
MORE VITALITY!

Yes, after examining the facts, a panel of twenty distinguished doctors agrees: "Minute Maid Fresh-Frozen Orange Juice... the year around!... is better for your health than the same oranges squeezed at home!"

Here's why! Because of the way Minute Maid selects sun-ripened oranges, bursting with juice, fresh off the tree... and because of the way Minute Maid blends the juice, FREEZES IT FRESH—and ships it to you at just the right time—month after month it gives you far more precious Vitamin C than the same kind of oranges squeezed at home!

Check after check made right in the stores—and figures from the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture—prove this true! So—switch to Minute Maid today!

DRINK MINUTE MAID
... FOR BETTER HEALTH!

PEACHES 'N' CREAM CAKE—to make this, split two delicate cake layers (either homemade or from the baker) then put them together with almond flavored whipped cream. Serve slices topped with sweetened fresh peaches or a colorful mixture of peaches and berries.

Menu Hints

New Fruit Juice

The new concentrated prune juice can be diluted with water to make 5 servings of very flavorful juice. It comes in convenient 5 1/2-ounce cans and does not need to be refrigerated.

Fruit Mixers

During the summer months we always keep a supply of thirst quenchers handy. Some of our favorites are apricot and peach whole fruit nectar, pineapple juice and the new concentrated prune juice. They're good mixers too.

Roll News

The latest news from the American Institute of Baking about the Brown 'n' Serve rolls is that they should be baked at 400 to 425 degrees F. rather than at a higher temperature.

Popular Snack Food

Mexican pepitas, which are actually roasted pumpkin seeds that have been treated with oil and salted, are now being sold in 5-ounce glass containers. They are becoming a popular snack food.

Summer Beverage

The flavors of apricot whole fruit nectar and canned cranberry juice blend beautifully together to make a very refreshing beverage. Serve over cracked ice.

Easy Summer Dessert

Chilled brandied canned cling peach halves served with chewy almond macaroons make a delightful summery dessert. Pour the brandy over the peaches and chill several hours before serving.

Serve Salad Lunch

For a very de luxe summertime luncheon salad menu we like to serve a Calavo half shell filled with fresh pineapple spears, halved strawberries, and grapefruit and orange sections. Serve with a lime French dressing accented with finely chopped water cress.

Add Raisins for Flavor

Raisins and other dried fruits are plenty useful for summertime cookies, salads and muffins. When the weather becomes hot and muggy take them off the pantry shelf and store them in the refrigerator.

Olives Dress Up Sauce

To make your favorite barbecue sauce for hamburgers, hot dogs and the like, a bit better than usual add a small can of chopped ripe olives to it.

Refreshing! Appetizing!

This is a refreshing appetizer which can double as a cooling dessert. Enjoy melons now—their season hasn't long to go.

CHILLED MELON JULEP
4 cups chilled melon balls (combination of cantaloupe, honeydew and watermelon)
1 cup honey
1 teaspoon grated orange and lime rind
2 tablespoons chopped fresh mint

Prepare melons. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over melon balls. Chill for several hours before serving. Garnish with mint sprigs. Four servings.

After roasting a duck, use the leftover fat to pan-fry meats in a highly seasoned sauce, or in a savory vegetable dish.

Here's A New Angle To Cabbage Salad

Here's a new angle to old-fashioned cabbage salad. This De Luxe Cabbage Salad has chewy ripe olives and chopped pimiento combined with finely shredded cabbage. Mix all the ingredients lightly together with a spicy sour cream dressing.

DE LUXE CABBAGE SALAD
1 cup ripe olives
3 cups finely shredded cabbage
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1 cup thick sour cream
2 teaspoons granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1 1/2 teaspoons vinegar
Lettuce

Cut olives from pits into large pieces. Combine with cabbage and pimiento. Blend sour cream, sugar, salt, mustard and vinegar together thoroughly. Pour over cabbage mixture and toss lightly to blend. Serve on crisp lettuce. Serves 5 to 6.

Summer Hints For Egg Care

With temperatures in the upper brackets, perhaps it's a good time to review the U. S. Department of Agriculture's tips on hot weather care of eggs.

Department researchers have established the fact that eggs left for three days at ordinary room temperature may lose as much "freshness" as eggs kept in the refrigerator for two weeks.

To hold the quality of eggs, put them in the refrigerator as soon after buying as possible. Don't leave eggs in a hot car while you take a prolonged shopping tour. Some quality will be lost just by leaving a carton of eggs on the kitchen table until all the other groceries are sorted. When the eggs are put in the refrigerator, leave them in the carton, large end up.

Fruit for Dessert

Canned fruit cocktail combined with quartered strawberries and halved fresh cherries to add extra bright notes of color, then soaked in rum, is a partyish dessert for warm weather. Serve thinly sliced almond refrigerator cookies with the dessert.

MRS. WHITE REFUSES She'll never cook starch again!

MIAMI.—Mrs. White, of this city, refuses to cook starch.

"Why should I?" she asks. "I've discovered E-Z Liquid Starch. All I do is add water, either hot or cold, and I have a starch that beats any I've ever cooked. No work and no mess for me. And E-Z is so delightfully scented it's a pleasure to work with it. What's more, the scent doesn't carry over into clothes after they've dried."

"E-Z saves me money as well as time. The blue is right in the starch, so I don't have to buy or work with a separate blue. No need for ironing wax, either, because it's in E-Z too."

"No argument about it. All my washdays will be E-Z days from now on."

HERB STUFFED DEVILLED EGGS
Eggs, deviled with tarragon vinegar, chives, ripe olives and mayonnaise, are tasty tid-bits.

It's Eggsactly Right For Summer Meals

With eggs the bonanza crop, now's the time to indulge your fancy for the devilled egg again. When every egg was worth its weight in legal tender, you could seldom spare enough for such a splurge. But now, praise be, the egg is plentiful again. So devilled eggs are due to be high-style on the table.

For first-course nibbling, or as the salad of the meal, few tidbits are so generally enjoyed, so avidly eaten as the devilled egg. There's something about the last swallow of one that mingles with the first bite of another. Why, it's nothing to down half-a-dozen, chain fashion, in one sitting.

Tarragon vinegar provides a unique, clear freshness. But it does much more than that. For the tarragon herb, steeped in this vinegar at the time of its distilling, lends an almost flower-like fragrance that enhances any dish. Chives, chopped in snibblings, add an authoritative tang. Ripe olives give a rich, dark flavor. And mayonnaise adds moisture.

EGGS STUFFED WITH HERB SEASONING

1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar
1 teaspoon olive oil
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
6 ripe olives, chopped
Mayonnaise

Cut hard-cooked eggs in half lengthwise. Remove yolks of eggs from whites, mash yolks well with fork and blend with the remaining ingredients. Refill whites lightly with yolk mixture. For salad, serve two halves on lettuce leaf and top with mayonnaise. Four servings.

Salad De Luxe

firm. Eight to 10 servings.

Try a small scoop of this or another fruit sherbet on an individual arrangement of fruit for dessert. Pretty combination: A thin wedge of melon centered with the sherbet and flanked on one side by a small cluster of grapes, on the other with a few cherries with their stems.

MOVIE REVIEWS

Alpine Scenes, Music Give Film Dignity

By PAUL JONES

I've just returned from climbing the Alps. Whew! I went along—just for the walk—with a quintet of movie stars, who apparently didn't have anything else to do.

It took only 90 minutes to make the climb and we came down in less time than it would take to sneeze.

And, if you ever had any notions about scaling the jagged peaks scrap 'em and go see "The White Tower" at the Rialto.

When the movie is through, you will think you have been up and down the side of those towering slopes a dozen times. It's about as nerve wracking as watching the woman being sawed in half at the carnival.

Glenn Ford, Valli, Oscar Homolka, Sir Cedrick Hardwicke and Claude Rains make the trip via movie hocus pocus. And although scenes in which they are shown climbing the mountains are as phony as home-made currency, they are exciting, nonetheless. The plot is not clearly defined—it's one of those things with a moral. But scenes in the Alps and excellent musical score make it attractive.

Girls, Gags, Glamor

MGM has a prescription for the sagging boxoffice blues. It's a delightful blend of technicolor, girls, gags and romantic schmalz. Such is the dish Loew's will serve up starting Friday when "Duchess of Idaho," starring Esther Williams and Van Johnson, makes its first appearance.

We viewed this new package of tinsel floss on Film Row the other night. We came away refreshed and firm in our conviction that actors don't have to act, movies don't have to have plots as long as Esther Williams can swim, Van Johnson can mugg and someone doesn't lose the recipe for turning black and white film into a multitude of colors.

By now you should gather we think "Duchess" is a blue-blood flicker which is destined to ring the box office cash register, and prove to one and all that movies may not be different, but "they're better than ever," as the saying goes.

Gunplay Aplenty

Any day now I look for Hollywood to come up with a movie entitled, "Smith and Wesson 30-30." The flicker factory is in the midst of another cycle—this time a cycle of firearms fotonovels. Two already have emerged, "Colt 45," which is current at the Fox. Another, "Winchester 73" is on deck. We shouldn't stop with just two. Let's give all the gun-makers a plug, Hollywood.

"Colt 45" is a first-rate Western movie with outlaws, Indians and law enforcers in a running 74-minute battle. Suspense is

Technician Indicted on Spy Charge

SANTA FE, N. M., July 6.—(AP)—A Federal Grand Jury Thursday indicted David Greenglass, 28, on a charge of conspiring to give atomic secrets to Russia.

In a two-page true bill, the jurors charged the former Los Alamos technician with four specific overt acts. It declared that:

On June 3, 1945, Greenglass met in Albuquerque with Harry Gold. On that same date, Greenglass received $500 from Harry Gold.

He prepared for Gold a statement of the Los Alamos atomic project.

U. S. Judge Carl A. Hatch, of Albuquerque set bail at $100,000—the same amount set for the former Army technician after he was arrested June 15 in New York.

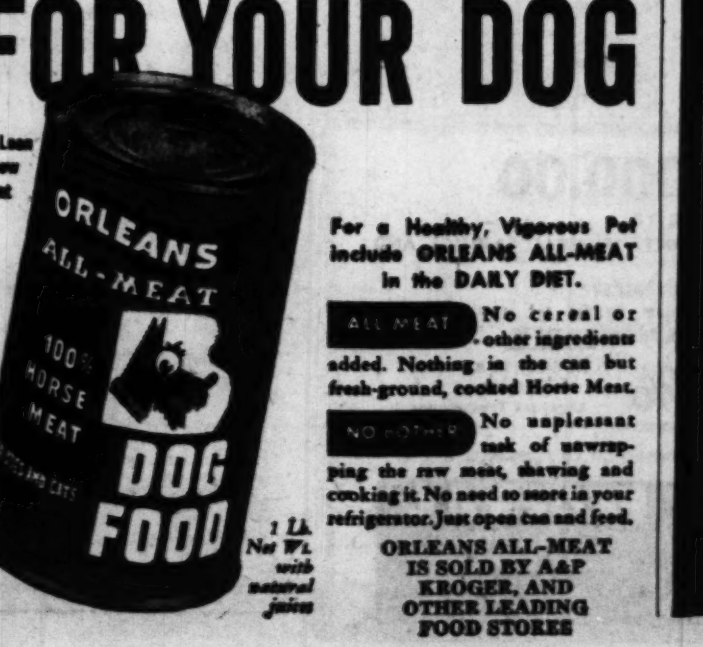

Andrews Hearing Set

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday called a hearing for July 14 on the nomination of Neil Andrews to be Federal judge for the Northern District of Georgia.

Andrews has served under a recess appointment since Oct. 21, 1949.

RCA Victor's '51 Radios, TVs Shown Dealers

RCA Victor introduced its 1951 line of radios and television receivers Thursday night to 300 dealers from all parts of Georgia at a dinner at the Ansley Hotel.

RCA Victor's '51 Radios, TVs Shown Dealers

This affair was under the auspices of the Yancey Company, Inc. of Atlanta, RCA Victor distributors for the Georgia area. It was in preparation for the public showing of the line here on July 17.

RCA Victor's '51 Radios, TVs Shown Dealers

RCA Victor's '51 Radios, TVs Shown Dealers

"The trend is definitely toward larger picture sizes," said Edwards, "and I predict that this year the 16-inch receiver will succeed the 12 1/2-inch receiver in popularity."

Among the seven new radio models are four console radio-phonographs ranging in price from $59.95 to $299.95.
